LEVIATHAN, FILLED TO CAPACITY, IS MAKING FAST TIME

HARDING PORTRAIT UNVEILED IN SALON

(Copyright, 1923.)

ON BOARD THE LEVIATHAN, EASTBOUND FROM NEW YORK, July 5.—Black clouds, sharp flashes of lightning, peals of thunder and heavy rain attended the Leviathan during the first hours after she had slipped away from the stirring scenes and prolonged clamor that marked her departure from New York Harbor. Gradually, however, the skies cleared and a fresh breeze arose and what had been a mirror-like sea broke into white caps. Late in the evening as the ship entered the fog area her siren began to sound and was answered by faint moanings from other vessels.

Thus far the speed has not been reduced and the ship is doing better than 24 knots an hour. She has been overhauled and passed two liners that looked as if they were at anchor.

Vast as the Leviathan is, she is crowded to the lobbies and the corridors are strewn with parcels and boxes of flowers. Life on board is one whirl of promenades, concerts and dancing.

Unveil Portrait of Harding.

Independence Day brought out hundreds of American flags and much patriotic music. Norman E. Mack, Democratic National Committeeman of New York, presided at a celebration in the grand salon, this exercise being followed by the unveiling of a large portrait of President Harding on the wall of the library. Secretary of Labor Davis made the unveiling address, in which he discoursed upon the solid qualities of the President and his many personal charms. He declared that the artist, Howard Chandler Christy, who sat modestly by with his wife, had accomplished in the portrait "an exquisite and marvelously faithful piece of painting." In the exercises in the grand salon the speakers were Representative Madden, Senator Smoot, Secretary Davis and former Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board, all of whom felicitated the Americans on board upon their good fortune in sailing under the Stars and Stripes and ardently eulogized the splendid seagoing qualities of the Leviathan.

Mr. Davis made it plain that he is going to Europe to try to perfect arrangements to end the scandal of cruelty that arises from the turning back from American ports of would-be immigrants who sold their all to pay for their voyage to America.

Government Subsidy Urged.

Mr. Lasker developed the thought that many nations with many ships of all kinds ever had been or could be great in peace or safe in war. He said he did not mind having American travel on foreign ships if foreigners would reciprocate, but if promising home ships was, to be a work of patriotism for people of other nations it also should be a work of patriotism for Americans. Senator Smoot and Davis declared strongly for a Government subsidy of the merchant marine and lauded President Harding for his vigorous and persistent support of American independence on the seas.

Mr. Davis dwelt upon his emotions as he sat in the quarters provided originally for the former kaiser and remembered how, 42 years ago, he had voyaged to America an immigrant, one of a family of eight in the steerage below the water line.

May Establish New Mark on Run to Cherbourg.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Not the least excited man aboard the Leviathan before she sailed yesterday was Alfred D. Lasker, retiring chairman of the Shipping Board, who for months has been concentrating his attention on the great ship. Accompanied by his successor, Edward P. Farley, he strode the decks, looking proudly at the liner's spotless cleanliness.

Of the 1700 passengers, 800 were in cabin, 450 second class and 450 third class. Although the Leviathan can accommodate nearly 4000, extra stateroom accommodations were demanded by those making the first trip, and hundreds of applicants for passage were disappointed.

It is believed the Leviathan will be able to set a new time mark for the run to Cherbourg, first stop ahead. Whether she would be sent

HARDING VISITS GRAVES OF FOUR ARMISTICE DAY PARADE VICTIMS

President Places Flowers on Graves of Ex-Service Men Who Were Killed at Centralia.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CENTRALIA, Wash., July 5.—President Harding paused in his strenuous journey across the country today to decorate the graves of the four American Legion men who were shot down in an armistice day parade here in 1919.

The President and Mrs. Harding left their special train early this morning and motored a mile and a half to the little graveyard where the ex-soldiers are buried. Mr. Harding laid flowers on the graves of Warren Grimm, Arthur McElfresh, Dale Hubbard and Ben Casagranda. He stood with bared head afterward in silent tribute.

"The whole world," said the President, "was shocked by their deaths. Those guilty of the crime struck at the very bulwark of our republic, at the men who saved it, and the men who must be counted upon to preserve it."

The shooting of four former service men at Centralia, Wash., Nov. 11, 1919, was followed that night by the lynching of Brick Smith, secretary of the Centralia union of the Industrial Workers of the World, and the arrest of 10 members. At their trial, April 6, 1920, seven were convicted of second degree murder and three were acquitted.

AUSTRIANS ON WATER WAGON

Wine Growers Ask Government for Help With Market Gone.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, July 5.—Wine growers and wine sellers in Austria are alarmed at a recent notable reduction in the consumption of their wares. They are loud in their complaints, and they inundate Parliament with proposals for help.

The principal causes of the falling off in the consumption of wine would seem to be, first, the exorbitant prices asked by both producer and innkeeper, and, second, the conditions of unemployment and half-time employment still reigning in the country. These have converted the wine lover perforce into a water drinker.

Bank Teller Shoots Himself.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—John P. Davin, a junior teller in the Philadelphia Savings Fund Society, one of the largest institutions in the city, shot and killed himself while standing in the teller's cage of the bank today. A few depositors were in the place at the time. A statement issued by the bank said that Davin had been suffering from melancholia due to ill health, the result of worry over the death of his child six months ago.

HOW NATIONAL COMMITTEEMEN FEEL ABOUT FORD

In Reply to Request for Opinion on Statements of Hilles and Mack, 11 of 19 Express Opposition.

ONE CALLS HIM "BAG OF GOLD"

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Most leaders of the Democratic party refuse to take Henry Ford seriously as a contender for the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

This is indicated in replies the New York World and the Post-Dispatch have received from messages sent to both Republican and Democratic national committeemen asking for their opinions of the recent statements by Charles D. Hilles, Republican National Committeeman from New York and Norman E. Mack, one of New York's representatives on the Democratic national organization.

Hilles pronounced the Ford candidacy a menace, characterizing the automobile manufacturer as a "bag of gold" who had been able to build up a substantial following.

Mack saw in Ford a "wonderful man" who would be a real contender for the 1924 nomination, though perhaps not in the Democratic party, since Mack was uncertain as to his party membership.

Usually Votes Democratic Ticket.

The Detroit correspondent of the World and Post-Dispatch wired:

"Henry Ford had always voted the Democratic ticket up to the time of his senatorial race, and is regarded as a Democrat. He has never definitely taken part in Democratic activities."

Out of 19 committeemen or committeewomen who have replied, 11 are outspokenly against the nomination of Ford.

The Republican committeemen appeared to be reluctant to line themselves up with Hilles, possibly for fear that by so doing they would encourage the Democrats to nominate the "menace." Of the three Republicans who replied, one agreed fully with Hilles. Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania said it was too early to talk about candidates.

The replies follow:

Howard Everett (Dem., Minn.): Notwithstanding the fact that Ford has recently endeared himself to the citizens of Minnesota by locating a part of his industry in St. Paul, there is no special enthusiasm for him at this time for President. Men who have aspirations to attend the next national convention are noncommittal and those expressing themselves are not for Ford.

Rose C. Schieffelin (Dem., Oregon: I consider Ford both a menace and a calamity. He kept his son out of the war and made himself ridiculous with his peace ship. No man should be President who has made open attacks upon any race of people within our gates.

J. T. Crawford, (Dem., Florida): I do not consider that Mr. Ford has any chance for the Democratic nomination unless he makes an extensive campaign in the primaries. If he runs independently I do not believe he would carry a single Southern Democratic state, but he might carry enough of the Middle West agricultural states to elect the Democratic nominee or throw the election into the House of Representatives.

Gertrude M. Pattangall (Dem., Maine): I do not regard Ford as a serious candidate for the presidency. He certainly has no claim to a Democratic nomination.

Mrs. Weston Vernon (Dem., Utah): In my opinion it is at least ungracious for a leading Republican, such as Mr. Hilles, even to refer to the question of money, in view of the well-known record of his party. I agree with Senator Copeland in his statement yesterday that as far as the major parties are concerned, Ford is an outsider, and consequently will not be nominated by either. A third-party ticket, even if headed by Ford, cannot win.

Mrs. James D. Finch (Dem., Nevada): I do not favor Ford's nomination on the Democratic ticket.

Robert C. Murchie (Democrat, New Hampshire.)—I see no reason why any Democratic convention should nominate Henry Ford as its candidate for President.

S. B. Hicks (Democrat, Louisiana.)—While Ford is a great business leader, whose inventive genius has been of vast benefit to mankind, I doubt if Louisiana wants him for President. Ford is not trained in public service and has taken no large part in national or international affairs. He can serve best

15,000 ALIENS EXPECTED TO ENTER U. S. BY END OF FIRST WEEK OF NEW QUOTA

MORE than 15,000 immigrants wil have entered the United States through Ellis Island by the end of the first week of the new quota, which opened last Sunday, Commissioner Curran announced yesterday. This is the largest total to arrive since the quota law went into effect, he said. The aliens, of 40 nationalities, arrived on 37 different liners.

TROOP PROTECTION FOR TUSKEGEE HEAD URGED

Telegram to President Also Says Lives of Negro Surgeons Have Been Threatened.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Declaring the lives of R. R. Moton, president of Tuskegee Institute and of negro surgeons at the United States Veterans' Hospital at Tuskegee, Ala., had been threatened by masked mobs, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today wired President Harding urging that he send Federal troops to protect them.

The telegram read:

"National Association for Advancement of Colored People, representing 100,000 American citizens, asks that Federal troops be sent to Tuskegee, Ala., to protect colored doctors sent to United States Veterans' Hospital to care for negro World War veterans. Lives of these United States doctors and security of Tuskegee Institute have been threatened by masked mobs. Tuskegee Institute, an internationally known agency, making for inter-racial good will, should have protection against lawless defiance of government. We urge especially Federal protection for R. R. Moton, successor to Booker T. Washington, whose life has been threatened."

By the Associated Press.

TUSKEGEE, Ok., July 5.—At Tuskegee Institute today it was stated that "no direct threats" against the institute had come to the knowledge of the officials but it was said that "many reports" had reached the institute. Dr. Moton was out of the State at this time, it was said, and no one in authority at the institute would speak for him personally.

Director Frank Hines of the War Veterans' Bureau, arrived here this morning to make a personal investigation of the situation relative to control of the disabled negro veterans' hospital here, a subject which aroused a heated controversy. Tension has been great here for days. Aside from the Ku Klux demonstration, few outward signs have been manifest, however. While awaiting the arrival of Director Hines to iron out the negro hospital situation, the more conservative of the inhabitants have urged a policy of waiting. This caution was violated Monday upon the arrival of John Calhoun Jr., a bookkeeper, who came to the hospital from Norfolk to take a clerical position. Calhoun was advised quietly of the situation and remained in town but a few hours. Just what was said to him or who said it, has not been disclosed.

TURK RESTRICTION ON FOREIGNERS IS RESCINDED

Constantinople Announces That They Will Be Permitted to Depart From Country.

AMERICANS GIVEN RIGHT TO ENTER

New Regulations Imposed by Angora Government Provide for Suspension of Phone Service Fridays.

By the Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 5.—The Turkish Government has rescinded its order prohibiting all foreigners, except British, French and Italian, from leaving the country without permission from the authorities at Angora. Americans are exempted from a previous order which forced them to get permission from Angora to enter the country.

Telephone Service to Be Suspended on Fridays.

(Copyright, 1923.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 5.—Life for foreigners in Constantinople is becoming increasingly difficult on account of the many restrictions imposed by the Angora Government, which seems to want in that way to force all foreigners to leave the country. The latest of these restrictive regulations was issued today, when telephone subscribers were informed that, henceforth, the service would be suspended completely on Fridays.

The principal sufferers from these restrictive orders thus far have been Americans, neutrals and the nationals of small allied countries. The British, French and Italians, whose Governments maintain troops here, are free from the arbitrary acts of the Angora Government. Though the Government at Washington has not yet recognized the abolition of the capitulations, American firms here are compelled to submit to all the Turkish regulations and to pay income and other taxes that are demanded. British, French and Italian firms here are still exempt from these taxes and are permitted to carry on as before. The Standard Oil and American Tobacco Co. officials have announced that henceforth their local offices will be closed on Fridays. The taxes paid by Standard Oil are now one of the main assets of the Turkish Treasury.

Many American Hospitals Closed.

American missionaries are more handicapped than others since they are not allowed by the Angora Government to return to their stations, but are all in Constantinople awaiting the conclusion of peace and hoping that their Government will make arrangements to safeguard their large interests.

According to missionaries recently arrived from the interior most of the American hospitals have been closed. Turkish authorities pride themselves that they can do whatever they like with Americans and recently started inspecting vessels of the American navy and the Young Men's Christian Association under various pretexts, such as trying to learn if tobacco was being sold to civilians by the sailors or admission fees were charged for the cinema shows.

Such visits to American ships, of course, are against all regulations, since Constantinople is still under foreign military occupation, and though American ships are not here for the same purpose as are ships of the allied navies, they have always been considered to be on the same footing and have enjoyed the same privileges.

Merchants Appeal to Britain.

The attitude of the Turkish authorities is thought to foreshadow so much trouble that a petition signed by 385 leading merchants, including 37 Turks, has been forwarded to the British High Commission asking that the allied troops not be withdrawn until the situation is improved, even should peace be signed at once at Lausanne. Turkish newspapers profess indignation at the action of the merchants who signed the petition, and demand their punishment as traitors to the Mussulman cause.

ETHEL BARRYMORE GETS DIVORCE FROM RUSSEL G. COLT

Custody of Three Children Given Actress — Decree Granted on Charge of Failure to Provide.

HUSBAND BEAT HER 'TERRIBLY,' SHE SAYS

Deposition Alleges He Blackened Her Eyes and Once Locked Her Out in Hotel Hall at Night.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 5.—Ethel Barrymore, the actress, was granted a divorce today from Russel G. Colt, son of the late Col. Samuel P. Colt of Bristol, on grounds of neglect to provide. Under the decision she is granted custody of three children.

It is understood that an interlocutory decree will be entered, whereby Colt will have the children with him at stated times.

The testimony was taken by depositions. Mrs. Colt, in her deposition, stated she was married on March 14, 1909. She said that in 1914, at a New York hotel, Colt struck her several times, and that she had been subjected to assaults on other occasions. She said she had supported herself and children since marriage.

Mrs. Colt's deposition also stated that as the result of brutal treatment she suffered a nervous shock and required medical treatment.

A story of a severe beating that left her unable to continue her part in a play was related.

"In my room, one evening in April, 1920," the deposition read, "when my husband came in and we began discussing certain persons, I made a particularly unfortunate remark about a certain person. He was enraged and struck me in the face with something he held in his hand. He hit me again and again. He beat me terribly. Then he left the room.

"I was in such a terrible condition that I had to send for a physician. He attempted to fix up my face, but I could not go out of my room for five days because of the swollen condition of my face and two black eyes."

It was necessary during this period, the deposition said, to discontinue the play she was appearing in.

Six months after her marriage, according to Miss Barrymore's testimony, she received her first black eye from her husband. She applied raw meat, she said, and was able to make her next performance. This was in 1909, according to the deposition, and was caused by her asking Colt why he came home late one evening.

On another occasion, she testified, her husband beat her, threw her out of a hotel room and locked the door, leaving her in the hall, clad only in her nightgown.

"I had to get another room in which to pass the night," she said. "I had nothing with me but the nightgown I was wearing."

Children's Education.

From September, 1922, until last month, Mrs. Colt declared, the expense of education of her children exceeded $5000. She said she maintained a summer home at Mamaroneck, N. Y., which was left to her and her husband, under the will of the late Col. Colt, and that she bore the expense and upkep of that home.

Anna Patterson, a maid, declared in a deposition that she was called to Mrs. Colt's room one night in April, 1920, and found Mrs. Colt bleeding about the face, with her eyes discolored and suffering from nervous shock.

Benjamin C. McLyman, attorney for Mrs. Colt, read depositions of John Drew, who is an uncle of Mrs. Colt, and of a man named Frank, financial manager for Mrs. Colt. Drew's statement pertained to the conduct of Mrs. Colt in maintaining her home and caring for her children. Frank's deposition related to financial matters.

TRAIN TAKEN THROUGH FLAMES

GUNNISON, Col., July 5.—Several hundred holiday excursionists got an unexpected Fourth of July thrill and faced grave peril when a westbound Denver & Rio Grande Western passenger train dashed into a the engineer was aware that she was burning snowshed on the narrow gauge line at Marshall Pass before ablaze. Opening the throttle wide, the engineer pulled the train through the fiery shed without loss of life. The fire spread to the station and the snowshed beyond. Both were destroyed. Traffic will be tied up more than 48 hours, while the tracks are cleared of wreckage, road officials stated. Children who were playing with fireworks in one of the sheds are believed to have started the fire.

J. S. CRAWFORD NEW PENITENTIARY WARDEN

Samuel Hill Resigns Post as Predicted—Other Changes at State Institution.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 5.—Warden Samuel Hill of the State Penitentiary, has resigned, as was exclusively predicted in the Post-Dispatch two months ago.

Governor Hyde announced Hill's resignation at noon today and the appointment of J. S. Crawford of Carrollton as warden. Crawford has been acting warden for the last two months.

Frank Hoffman of Trenton, owner of one of the largest mercantile establishments north of the Missouri River and chairman of the Grundy County Republican Committee, was appointed Commissioner of Penal Institutions to succeed George Wagner of Jefferson City who resigned last February. Wagner will be retained as Superintendent of Industries.

The resignation of Warden Hill will be a blow to many of the convicts for he won their regard. Hill practically lived with the convicts, making their problems his, and while his desire to be humane with them led him into the bestowal of confidence which in two or three instances was betrayed, in the main it resulted in a morale among the prisoners which had been unusual.

Hill had several disagreements with the Governor and his two Republican associated commissioners of penal institutions, prior to his departure for his home at Trenton two months ago and his resignation at that time was expected. The atmosphere between Hyde and Hill is said to have cleared since that time, however. Hill was Hyde's pre-primary campaign manager in 1920 during the race for the Republican nomination for Governor and the two have been lifelong friends. Hyde has visited Hill in Trenton three times during the warden's absence, and friends of the two say that Hill's resignation comes because of his physical condition, physicians having advised him not to return to the strain of the prison position for a time at least.

Crawford, the new warden, who has been acting during Hill's absence is a former probate judge of Carroll County. He is a friend of Roy Monier, chairman of the State Tax Commission.

TOY BALLOON STARTS A FIRE

By the Associated Press.

WOOSTER, O., July 5.—A toy balloon sent up at Lodi, 15 miles northwest of here, last night, set fire to the plant of the Horr-Warner Co., near here, destroying four storage houses, 18 cribs, two barns and office, two dwellings. The loss was estimated at $50,000 or more.

$40,000 Diamond Necklace Stolen.

PARIS, July 5.—Mrs. Mary Fielding, an American, has discovered it is imprudent to carry $100,000 worth of jewelry with her in a reticule to the theater. Coming out of a Parisian music hall, Tuesday in the crowded Faubourg Montmartre, she saw her bag drop into the gutter. The handle had been dexterously cut while she was holding it. Hastily picking up the reticule, Mrs. Fielding found it still contained a pair of pearl earrings and a diamond brooch, but that a diamond necklace, valued at $40,000, had disappeared.

SHELBY MEN FIGURE THEIR LOSS ON FIGHT WAS $100,000

Gate Receipts Reported as $224,485 and Expenses as $315,000 — Salvage May Be $25,000—Federal Tax Was $22,448—7202 Paid Admissions.

Gibbons Gets Nothing From Promoters, but May When Pictures Are Shown—Declares He Has No Financial Regrets.

By the Associated Press.

SHELBY, Mont., July 5.—Its frenzy of excitement subsiding, Shelby sat down today to count its losses. On the debit side of the ledger, this little Montana cow town, which had its day yesterday as the fight center of the world, must write down a deficit of approximately $100,000.

It bought the world's heavyweight championship battle, to which 7202 admissions were paid, with an outlay of $210,000 for the title holder, $20,000 for promotion and $85,000 for an arena.

Salvage on the amphitheater is estimated to be about $25,000. The gate receipts were $224,485, from which Federal taxes of $22,448.50 must be deducted, according to figures made public here by Charles A. Rasmusson, Montana Collector of Internal Revenue.

Emotionally, Shelby Wins.

Emotionally, for Shelby, the fight was an outstanding success. The town wanted Gibbons to stay with the champion 15 rounds. It saw him do it.

Several thousand persons, a few minutes before the fight started, "crashed" the fence surrounding the affair, and swelled the attendance at the bout to about 25,000. But their presence did not show in the gate receipts.

The earnings of the champion for the fight were cut to less than $262,000. Jack Kearns, his manager, collected only $52,000 of the third $100,000 guaranteed Dempsey after the gate receipts had been turned over to him. Out of this amount he paid for two preliminary bouts at a cost of about $1000, and footed a Federal tax bill on $75,000 worth of tickets. The discrepancy between the ticket sale total and the amount he received was due to the fact that Kearns sold approximately 2300 $20 tickets for $10, shortly before the bout, as a crowd of several thousand, apparently unwilling to pay regular prices, surged against the gates and the fence surrounding the arena.

No Money for Preliminary Bout.

The preliminary between Jimmy Delaney, St. Paul lightweight, and Jack Burke, one of Dempsey's sparring partners, was canceled at the last minute, when funds which were to be supplied by the promoters were not available.

The fight crowd was subjected to a prolonged wait when Michael Collins refused to permit the fight to proceed until the money to pay for the preliminaries and James Dougherty, the referee, was forthcoming. Collins, Kearns and Maj. J. E. Lane, trustee for the promoters, engaged in a heated argument at the ticket office, while the spectators sweltered in the hot sun. But a personal check for $1000, signed by Mayor James Johnson, treasurer of the fight, eventually was produced, and the advance of the money necessary was made from the fight account, after a hurried trip to a local bank by Mayor Johnson's son.

Pictures May Help Gibbons.

Tom Gibbons, defeated, but winner of a moral victory, nevertheless in the eyes of Shelby, which celebrated hilariously last night, will return to St. Paul, his home, with his wife and their three small children tonight or early tomorrow. He was given a hearty greeting by the townspeople, with whom he had become immensely popular during his training here. As he left the ring a war cap of Indian feathers was set on his head. His seconds fought to hold back shouting, congratulating fans as he was rushed to his quarters. His wife, awaiting his coming, greeted him with a kiss when he reached home.

Last night he celebrated Independence day by shooting off firecrackers for his boys and greeting scores of friends who called to congratulate

NEW PENALTIES IN DUISBURG AFTER SENTRY IS SHOT

GERMAN IS KILLED, REFUSED TO HALT

British Political Writers Regard Franco-British Impasse and See No Rift in Clouds.

By the Associated Press.

DUISBURG, July 5.—The wounding of a Belgian sentry near the bridge, where last Saturday's disastrous explosion occurred, has increased the penalities imposed upon this city. With the exception of horsedrawn vehicles carrying merchandise and food, only pedestrians are allowed on the streets. The curfew hour has been brought forward to 6 o'clock in the evening.

One German was killed and three wounded by Belgian sentries yesterday for refusing to halt after curfew.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 5.—Most of the political writers in the morning newspapers treat the Franco-British impasse rather despairingly and do not profess to see a rift in the clouds. The one exception is the lobby correspondent of the Daily Express, who says:

"It was stated in ministerial circles overnight that the negotiations had been taking a new and more hopeful turn." He admits he is unable to disclose the nature of the reported change.

The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says the Government still regards the situation "as one of exceeding gravity as well as delicacy." He adds that the conversation can hardly be resumed except upon a new basis such as might be afforded by a clear and complete French reply to Great Britain's fundamental queries.

The correspondent understands that, in his recent discussions with the French and Belgian Ambassadors, Lord Curzon strongly impressed upon them that the patience of the British Parliament and nation was nearly exhausted, even hinting that Great Britain might be driven to independent action.

ESSEN, July 5.—Announcement that the management of the Krupp works had signed an agreement with engineers of the Commission of Occupation for the use of a branch railroad line connecting two branches of the Krupp plants was made yesterday by the French authorities. This is said to be the first agreement of any kind signed by representatives of the German industrialists with representatives with the forces of occupation, and is looked upon by the French as an indication of the weakening of passive resistance by the Germans.

The agreement is the outcome of the occupation by the French Monday of the foundries and coal yards of the Krupp locomotive branch at Segeroth, a little station near Essen. When they took over the plant the French found 70,000 tons of coal and coke 12 locomotives and several hundred tons of tires for locomotives and railway cars.

Segeroth is connected with what is known as the Martens Steel Works, also part of the Krupp plant, by a narrow-gauge railroad, which engineers of the commission say the Krupp management has been using to ship out surreptitiously products from Segeroth, contrary to the decree of Gen. de Goutte.

The agreement provides, according to the French, that in the future all goods shipped on this line will be open to French inspection, and in return the Krupp works will be allowed to send unfinished material to the Martens works over the line simultaneously.

him on his showing against the champion.

Gibbons offered no excuses for his defeat, but declared he desired a return match with the champion. He said he tired under the strain imposed by the wrestling and infighting during the bout, and was unable to rally when he sought to put over a knockout punch. He was unmarked, except for a large, blue welt on one thigh, which he said was caused by a low blow which caused severe pain.

Fans who have been expressing regrets that the challenger probably would receive nothing for fighting the champion, were heartened today by the belief that motion picture rights in the fight, 25 per cent of which are owned by Gibbons, would net the promoters a considerable sum.

Films of the fight will be of considerable value in the opinion of officials here. It was predicted the owners of picture rights would be able to dispose of them for at least $200,000. Dempsey owns 33⅓ per cent of the picture rights, Gibbons 25 per cent; Michael Collins, match maker, 17½ per cent and Johnson and Molumby the balance.

Terms of the contract provided that Gibbons was to receive 50 per cent of the receipts above the champion's guarantee of $310,000. As the gate receipts were only slightly more than $200,000, he received nothing from the promoters.

Gibbons' trip to Montana was not barren of profit, however. He received $5000 from Shelby for training expenses, from $100 to $400 a day during nearly three weeks of training, from admissions at his training camp and a tour of the State immediately preceding the bout netted him $5000.

Gibbons says he has no regrets over the financial failure of the bout. He met the champion, the goal toward which he has struggled for three years, retained his record of never having been knocked off his feet, and, with the knowledge he has gained of Dempsey's style, is confident the outcome of a return match will be different from that of yesterday.

Both of Dempsey's Eyes Slightly Discolored.

By the Associated Press.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., July 5.—Jack Dempsey, refreshed by a good night's sleep, prepared today to desert Montana for a few days' vacation with his mother in Salt Lake City, after nine weeks of training for his heavyweight match with Tommy Gibbons at Shelby yesterday.

The titleholder said he was tired of the training grind and would welcome a vacation. He expressed admiration for Gibbons' ability as a boxer and declared he wanted to give him credit for his wonderful showing.

"I hope that Gibbons was not hurt," Dempsey said. "He is a great boxer and sure put up a fast bout. I hope the crowd was pleased."

Dempsey has two slightly discolored eyes, a wound under the right, and an old cut opened up over the left by Gibbons' left hooks and right crosses.

The champion wore a straw hat, pulled low over his forehead, partially hiding his right eye, which was just beginning to become blue.

The champion had no explanation to offer for the four Chicago detectives who went down the aisle with him yesterday and stood around him while the gloves were being adjusted and also when he left the ring.

"I guess Doc might have possibly thought something would happen," Dempsey said, "and I guess he wanted plenty of protection."

Hiram Dempsey of Salt Lake City, father of the champion, saw his son box in a championship match for the first time yesterday, and said he was not disappointed because Jack did not win by a knockout.

8 OF 13 BALLOONS IN RACE STILL UP

They Are Expected to Fly Over Great Lakes or Into Canada Today—Started at Indianapolis.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 5.—Eight of the 13 balloons which left Indianapolis yesterday afternoon in the national balloon race were reported still in the air today.

It was said by those connected with the race that the pilots and their aides probably would fly over the Great Lakes or into Canada today.

Two Aeronauts Slightly Hurt.

In less than three hours after the race started, Warren Razor, piloting the "Ohio," was forced to land at Arcadia, Ind., less than 25 miles from Indianapolis, because of a leaky gas valve.

The three pilots covering the most miles on the uncharted journey will be permitted to enter the international balloon race to be started from Brussels, Belgium, in September.

H. E. Honeywell of St. Louis is piloting the balloon St. Louis in the race.

The United States Army balloon, S-7, is in charge of Lieut. James B. Jordan of Scott Field, Belleville, Ill.

Roy F. Donaldson and P. A. Erlach, both of Springfield, Ill., pilot and aide respectively in the "City of Springfield," were injured slightly this morning when they were forced to jump from their craft eight miles northeast of Bryan, O. Their balloon escaped.

Torn fabric at the top of the bag forced W. T. Van Orman, Akron, O., and his aid, H. V. Thadon of Detroit, to land in the dark at 10 o'clock last night, five miles north of Hartford City, Ind. Van Orman's balloon was the "City of Akron."

Balloon Splits on Top.

Jack Boettner of Akron, piloting the Goodyear II, was the fourth pilot to report having landed. He telegraphed the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, sponsor for the race, that he had landed near Fremont, O., at 11 o'clock this morning. Of the balloons which have returned to the earth, Boettner's has traveled the farthest, approximately 300 miles, it was announced.

Ralph Upson telegraphed the Associated Press of his thrilling experience during the 10 hours he was in the air. He declared his balloon split on top at a height of 5,800 feet at 2 o'clock this morning, but that he was able to make a safe parachcute landing in a farmhouse yard four miles west of Wapakonet, O.

76 INJURED BY FIREWORKS AND PISTOLS HERE, NEARLY TWICE LAST YEAR'S NUMBER

Boy Hit by Stray Bullet—Numerous Burns from Blank Cartridges Treated With Anti-Tetanus Serum at Clinic.

Celebration yesterday of the Fourth with fireworks and several days of advance celebrating, resulted in the injury of 74 persons, mostly children, two of them seriously. This total is expected to increase with further reports from dispensaries and physicians. This accident toll is almost double that of last year, when 40 persons were injured.

Thousands of persons observed the day in safer fashion in picnic parties at the parks and nearby places in St. Louis County, and swimming and boating in the Meramec river. Showers during the day marred these outings, but did not greatly decrease their number as compared with those in former years. The flying circus at the St. Louis aviation field attracted a large crowd.

Attendants at the special clinic established for the day at City Hospital were kept busy giving emergency treatment for powder burns and administering anti-tetanus serum. Despite regulations against the sale of blank pistols, a number of those appearing at the clinic were suffering from injuries inflicted by blank pistols.

Anti-Tetanus Serum for All.

The clinic and the police yesterday reported 39 persons injured by fireworks, or other methods of celebrating the Fourth. Thirty-six had been reported during the week, prior to Wednesday, and one was reported this morning.

In each case anti-tetanus serum was administered, as there is grave danger of infection from powder burns. Last year nine persons died in St. Louis and vicinity from tetanus, resulting from injuries suffered in explosion of fireworks. There were no fatalities in 1921, but the death toll from this cause in 1920 was 12 in and near the city.

Physicians state that tetanus may be averted by prompt treatment and use of the serum. Tetanus may develop in five days to a month after the injury.

Frank Habeck Jr., 16 years old, of 3829 North Twenty-second street, was wounded in the back by a .22-caliber bullet at his home yesterday afternoon. His condition is not considered serious. He was in the back yard at his home, and had started toward the house, when he was hit. Police were told a man was firing a revolver from a porch in rear of the Habeck home at the time the boy was wounded.

Frank Murray, 11, of 7558 North Broadway, was the victim of two accidents Tuesday and yesterday. Tuesday he was treated for powder burns on his left side, inflicted when a playmate fired a blank pistol. Yesterday he was taken to a dispensary for treatment of powder burns on the left side of his chest, suffered from the explosion of a firecracker.

Serious powder burns on the chest were suffered by Jacob Wiegand, 14, of 1612 South Tenth street, when one of a group of boys playing on South Seventh street, near Soulard street, discharged a blank pistol against his chest. Police are searching for the boy who held the pistol.

Many Burns From Blank Pistols.

The majority of the other cases reported were children. Because of the rush at City Hospital clinic complete records of many patients were not taken.

Cases reported by the clinic yesterday and the patients sent home, were as follows:

Two arrests under an ordinance prohibiting the sale of blank pistols were made by police of the Carr Street District, who investigated the injury of Masisla Zajowski, 12, 1304 North Ninth street, whose left hand was burned by discharge of a blank pistol. On information obtained from the boy, police arrested Isidore Needle and his daughter, Lillian Needle, at a shop conducted by the former at 805 High street. Needle was ordered to appear in police court and to produce his daughter in Juvenile Court.

Joseph Pasich, 5, 1851 South Twelfth street, suffered powder burns of the right hand this forenoon when he hammered a torpedo with a stone. The torpedo was picked up by the child in the street near his home.

Two plate glass windows in a store at 1029 Chouteau avenue were broken last night, apparently by an explosion of cannon crackers thrown against them. The damage was $150.

Michael Bommerito, 1223 North Seventh street, reported that about 9 p. m. three shots were fired into his automobile parked in front of his home, by persons passing in an automobile and firing revolvers. His son, Joseph, 4, was sleeping in the car, but was not injured.

Mrs. Jesse Weil, 5567 Waterman avenue suffered burns on her left arm at noon yesterday by the explosion of a torpedo thrown into a People's bus, in which she was a passenger, at Hamilton avenue and Delmar boulevard.

OBJECTS TO CUT IN BUDGET OF LEAGUE

Sir Eric Drummond Lays Financial Difficulties to Nations That Haven't Paid Assessments.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, July 5.—Following the adoption of a resolution by the League of Nations council yesterday calling for greater economy in the administration of the league, Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General, declared that no further reduction in the budget of the organization could be made without affecting the work.

"We have gone to the extreme limit," he said, "and I shall not undertake reductions which would cripple our work."

Sir Eric attributed the financial difficulties of the league to nonpayment of assessments by several of the member countries.

On the report of Antonio Salandra of Italy concerning Article 10, the council today decided to invite all member states to communicate within a given time any observations they may care to make so that further discussion may take place at a future session. Thirteen communications which have already been received will be considered at the same time.

They were the planes of the various picture services and newspapers carrying the pictures of the fight.

Two planes were on their way by 5:30 o'clock, mountain time, and one of them, which is going straight through, is expected to put in at Mineola, N. Y., before dusk today. It is piloted by J. W. Jacobson, former army aviator and a veteran of the flying game.

The second plane flew to Wilmington, N. D., last night. Those pictures were put on board a fast train which reached Norwich, N. D., just at daybreak today. Another plane picked up the pictures at that point and will carry them the rest of the way to New York City.

TAMMANY CHEERS GOV. SMITH AS 'NEXT PRESIDENT'

HAWES DENOUNCES THE KU KLUX KLAN

St. Louisan's Demand for Legal Destruction of 'Secret Cabal' Stirs Big Assemblage.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Cheering Governor Alfred E. Smith as the "next President," and shouting approval of light wines and beer and indorsing the suggestion that President Harding would better bet his advice at Albany than from the Ku Klux Klan and the Antisaloon League, were features of Tammany's Fourth of July celebration yesterday.

"The Hall" and its guests were stirred by a denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan voiced in bristling language by Representative Harry B. Hawes of St. Louis. He demanded the legal destruction of this "secret cabal." With cheers Tammany approved.

Governor Smith was given a noisy sendoff. His set speech, discussing the beneficent effects of liberty guaranteed under the Constitution and proclaimed by the Declaration of Independence was repeatedly interrupted by thunderous applause. When he was called by Grand Sachem John R. Voorhis, still vigorous although in his ninety-fourth year, Representative James A. Gallivan of Boston shouted:

"Three cheers for Al Smith, the next President of the United States."

An assemblage that packed Tammany's historic building responded with gusto. The demonstration lasted nearly two minutes. Smith beamed and bowed, alternately mopping the perspiration from his brow and adjusting the green stole of a Tammy Sachem that encircled his neck. The Tammany gathering liberally cheered the address of Representative Hawes.

Equal Opportunities in America, Gov. Smith Declares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Gov. Smith of New York, declared Tuesday night by National Democratic Committeeman Norman E. Mack of Buffalo to be an avowed candidate for the presidency, yesterday discussed in a Fourth of July speech at Tammany Hall the relative chances of a rich man and a poor man becoming President.

The Governor, whose proudest boast is that he rose from the fish markets and newsboydom, said:

"If ever a country was ruled by the plain people that make it up, it is the United States of America. Ours is a land of equal opportunity and that means that oportunity is accorded to the rich and poor alike.

"As a cold matter of fact, no man of great wealth has ever been elected President of this country. Some of the brightest passages in our history record the elevation to high office of men from humble surroundings."

No Ruling Class in U. S.

"In spite of the fact that our Government is built upon principles that admit of no discussion, human frailties have brought about enemies within and without. To my mind, our fear, if we are to have one, must come from the activities of those within our own ranks. They are divided into classes, the ignorant and the wilful. Education and its progress will take care of them both.

"They build their hopes of success on the popular fallacy that there is in this country a ruling class. No man or set of men rules this country. That argument is an appeal to popular passion and prejudice, and the thought that they desire to plant in the minds of the gullible is that wealth is a ruling force in this country. Nothing could be further from the truth."

The Declaration of Independence, he said, was, after all, in the nature of a political platform and was nothing more than the setting forth of a political principal. The Constitution was adopted, he asserted, to give life and vigor to the principles set forth in the declaration and guarantee them to posterity.

While the Constitution was intended to protect the minority from the tyranny of the majority, he declared it also was intended to safeguard the right of an unorganized majority as against what could be the tyranny of a minority.

HOW NATIONAL COMMITTEEMEN FEEL ABOUT FORD

by continuing to develop, in his large and forceful way, industrial and agricultural interests of America.

Joseph Martin (Democrat, Wisconsin.)—I do not regard Ford's candidacy for the presidency seriously.

James H. Moyle (Democrat, Utah.)—I concur with the opinion that Ford's candidacy is a menace to both the old parties. Widespread discontent exists with the reactionary Harding administration and its failure to fulfill promises made, which, with the failure of leaders of the Democratic party, does more to crystalize sentiment in favor of a Democratic candidate. Coupled with the growing demand for change from whatever condition exists, this is creating a fertile field for a radical progressive leader with well defined ideas. Results may be disastrous if the men who should speak out keep quiet and thereby encourage the policy of drifting or gumshoeing. There is a need of united aggressive outspoken leadership in the Democratic party. But the Democrats will nominate a Democrat. If Henry Ford qualifies as such and makes the race for the nomination he will be a formidable contender.

Mrs. John D. McNeel (Democrat, Alabama.)—I do not believe Ford would make a satisfactory President of the United States.

Edward F. Goltra (Democrat, Missouri): I am not in a position to express an opinion of Charles D. Hilles or Norman E. Mack's statements, as I am not sufficiently well acquainted with Henry Ford to say whether he is properly equipped to fill the position of chief executive of the nation, and do not know whether he aligns himself with the Bull Moose, Democratic or Republican parties.

W. L. Barnum (Democrat, Arizona): I do not agree with the view of Charles D. Hilles. Norman E. Mack, in my judgment, appreciates the present situation in reference to Henry Fords' candidacy.

George White (Democrat, Ohio: If the present trend toward political irresponsibility continues into 1924, Ford, on an independent ticket, will be a real contender for the presidency.

Nebraskan Favors Ford.

W. H. Thompson (Democrat, Nebraska): The Hilles menace sinks into insignificance when confronted by Ford's ability and conception of the real purpose of money, to build, equip and operate industries that men and women may have employment, especially in a nation like ours.

W. F. Connolly (Democrat, Michigan): Henry Ford is not a menace to the nation in any aspect of his activities, whether he is considered as a private citizen, captain of industry or as a potential candidate for the presidency. No honest man need fear Henry Ford. Predatory and parasitic wealth may hate and fear Henry Ford, but the productive forces of our economic life, the farmers, workers, merchants, manufacturers and all who contribute something besides mere manipulation and "market-rigging" to our prosperity and progress, sense in Henry Ford a kindred spirit, a super-worker, if you please, who, despite some minor flaws to which all human flesh is heir by and large, is the evangelist of a new day, a day of more general well-being.

South Dakota for Ford.

Sadie W. Mickey (Democrat, South Dakota): Henry Ford is popular in South Dakota. He leads a recent straw vote by a large majority. His personal success is counted a big factor in these days when a sound business head is needed at the helm. He will be a strong contender for the nomination, and if successful, the masses will rally to his support.

S. M. Pickett (Democrat, Nevada)—I fail to see anything in Ford's personal, political or business life to justify Hilles, the Republican spokesman, in calling him a menace, unless he be a menace to seekers after privileges. As a regular party nominee or independent, Ford will poll a very heavy vote.

Clark Howell (Democrat, Georgia)—It seems to me that it is time enough to discuss the possibility of the nomination of Henry Ford as Democratic candidate for president after he makes known the fact, if it is a fact, that he is a Democrat.

C. A. Reynolds (Republican, North Carolina): I do not think Henry Ford stands a chance to be nominated for President. He would be defeated if nominated.

H. L. Remmel (Republican, Arkansas): I am in hearty accord with the views of Charles D. Hilles in his statement against Henry Ford's reported candidacy for President.

George Wharton Pepper (Republican, Pennsylvania): I think it is a little premature to discuss presidential candidacies and therefore have nothing to say on the subject.

Woman, With Survivors of 19 Children and Babies She Took in One Taxicab on 200-Mile Trip in Quest of 'Fresh Air and Sunshine'

—Underwood & Underwood Photograph.

THE county authorities at Schenectady, N Y., were dumbfounded when Mrs. Anna Siewers of Brooklyn arrived there last Sunday morning with 19 children and babies in a lone taxicab which she had hired at her home to take her and her little charges in quest of fresh air and sunshine, both of which had been rare, she said, at her home. Two of the babies died and others were in a serious condition. The photograph, taken in front of the almshouse at Schenectady shows her with the survivors who were able to appear in the picture.

Mrs. Siewers came into possession of all the children and babies through operating a home where working women could leave their little ones while at their employment. She kept the taxicab in service by paying the chauffeur his fee at regular intervals.

CHILD KILLED, 45 OTHERS HURT WHEN GRAND STAND COLLAPSES

Many of the Injured at Salt Lake City Celebration Buried Beneath Wreckage.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 5.—A child was killed and 43 persons were injured, several seriously, early last night, when a temporary grand stand, from which hundreds of persons were watching a Fourth of July celebration at Liberty Park, gave way and crashed to the ground, burying under the wreckage many of the injured.

Ruby Soderbury, 9 years old, died of a broken neck.

LAUMEIER'S FORMER WIFE SILENT ON PLANS

Keeps Own Counsel Following Decision Realty Man Is Not Father of Her Son.

Mrs. Byrd Shoemaker of New York, former wife of Herman Henry Laumeier, St. Louis real estate owner, has not indicated whether she will proceed further with her attempt to fix upon Laumeier the paternity of her son, Henry, now 3½ years old, born six months after she divorced Laumeier in 1919.

Circuit Judge Hall, Tuesday afternoon, ruled that little Henry was not Laumeier's son, and that his mother had "combined and conspired with certain persons" to represent him as Laumeier's son and heir, for the purpose of extorting money from Laumeier. Judge Hall also held that the child, not being Laumeier's heir, had no valid claim against his property.

The suit was filed by Laumeier and his sister, Mrs. Edwin Gempp, to clear the title to their property, an inheritance from their mother, Mrs. Christina Laumeier. They alleged that, because of the child's supposed claim, they found difficulty in selling property of the estate. Mrs. Shoemaker, who has contended that the Missouri courts have no jurisdiction in the case, has a proceeding pending in the New York courts.

Laumeier, testifying in the case, related that he was married in Salem, Ill., July 7, 1918, in the course of an automobile trip in which much liquor was consumed; that he was told of the marriage when he "came to," and that he wept on hearing that he was married, whereupon his companions gave him another big drink and told him to "forget it."

He endeavored to show that he left his wife at once, going to Chicago, and did not associate with her thereafter, and that he consulted a lawyer about a divorce, but was told to wait a year.

Laumeier testified that he avoided his wife, but that she sought to meet him, and that she once summoned him from the Missouri Athletic Association and told him she had a bill at Hotel Statler that must be paid. He said he gave her the money she asked for, but learned later that she had not been registered at the Statler, and concluded that he had paid a bill for someone else.

He introduced the testimony of his sister and her husband, that he remained at home and avoided his wife while she was in St. Louis, also testimony that a man who called himself "Henry," but was declared not to be Laumeier, visited her at the Sterling Apartments.

Before the hearing Tuesday, the former wife's lawyers tried unsuccessfully to get a writ of prohibition from the Supreme Court, to prevent the hearing of her case. Randolph Laughlin, attorney for Laumeier, testified that he offered her a $5000 settlement, which she refused, saying she expected to get $5000 a year from Laumeier.

140-YARD MASHIE SHOT PUTS HIM IN HOLE-IN-ONE CLUB

J. H. Blackmer, Playing in Foursome at St. Clair Country Club, Achieves Rarest of Golf Feats.

There was no exultation in the voice of J. H. Blackmer of 6778 Manchester avenue, a salesman, when a Post-Dispatch reporter spoke to him by telephone this morning. It was true, he said, that yesterday he did drive a golf ball with a mashie 140 yards and the ball rolled in the cup. But was that his fault? He knew it was an accident. Why did everybody persist in treating him this way?

Blackmer was playing in a foursome in the afternoon on the course of the St. Clair Country Club, near East St. Louis, of which he is a member. The seventeenth hole on this course is guarded by a creek hazard. Good golfers occasionally make it in two. Three or four is a natural, honest figure. Therefore, when Blackmer's companions saw the ball roll in, they looked at each other.

He said their attitude toward him has changed. He indicated to a reporter that he feels his days on the links will never be the same again. Through the long approaching years he must know that if he plays magnificently for a birdie three some friend will be sure to say, "Old man, you're slipping. I knew you when you made a hole in one." And always the memory of yesterday will lure him to try to do it again just to prove it wasn't an accident.

By this feat Blackmer becomes a member of the mythical "Hole-in-One" Club. There are said to be only 152 members in the United States.

No. 3 Hole Made in Single Shot on Triple A Links.

Following the news of Blackmer's shot yesterday, comes the announcement that J. W. Francis of 5723 Kingsbury boulevard, drove a mashie shot from tee into cup on No. 3 at Triple A last Monday. Francis was playing as the guest of Dr. George Manting at the time in a threesome with Dr. Manting and R. L. Whitney. No. 3 is a 122-yard short pitch to the green.

"I made poor scores on the first two holes," he said. "My caddie came up to me on the way to No. 3 tee, and said I simply must make a good one on the next hole. He suggested a two."

A sporting goods house which sponsors the "Hole-in-One" Club will send Francis a dozen golf balls and a driver, according to custom, he said.

RAILROADS DENY LACK OF CARS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—In spite of heavy traffic on railroads during the spring and early summer, there is no car shortage, the American Railway Association reported today. On June 22, railroads had 58,670 surplus cars, in good repair, but not in use. Although 4269 coal cars were in the surplus classification, 7976 were sought by shippers at various points where they could not be furnished immediately.

ST. LOUISAN KILLED BY FARM TRACTOR

Dempsey C. Maupin Drives Machine Over Bank of Creek Near Allenton, St. Louis County.

DEMPSEY C. MAUPIN.

Dempsey C. Maupin, 48 years old, of 5837 Page avenue, assistant manager of the local branch of the Oliver Chilled Plow Works, became interested in a light tractor working on a farm west of Allenton, St. Louis County, while on holiday yesterday; drove it, and was instantly killed when it overturned about 4 p. m.

Maupin, his wife, D. B. Jones of 23 South Taylor avenue, a representative of the company that makes the kind of tractor which Maupin drove, and Mrs. Jones, had gone to camp for the day near Fox Creek, on the Allenton-Pacific road. Anton Meyer, a farmer, was using his tractor to plow a rectangular field near by.

Maupin and Jones left their wives and went to watch the tractor. Maupin obtained permission to run the machine. After going about the field for a short time he drove close to the bank of a creek. The bank gave way, and the tractor and plow turned over, landing near the water. The two units "jack-knifed" together and a beam of the plow struck Maupin's head. Maupin's neck was broken and his chest crushed, among other injuries.

Maupin's body will be taken to his former home, Calhoun, Mo., tomorrow, for burial.

out for this record on the initial voyage depended a great deal upon weather conditions, her commander, Capt. Herbert Hartley, U. S. N., R., said.

Inspection of the passenger lists showed that none of the first cabin passengers gave foreign addresses, and in the other classes only two were found, both from London.

Almost the entire saloon passenger list was made up of persons from the larger cities of the United States, only a few coming from towns or cities of less than 20,000.

Leviathan Too Large to Make Money, Says Admiral Plunkett.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 5.—The steamship Leviathan "never made any money and never will," Read Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, commandant at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, declared in an address today before the Brooklyn Rotary Club. The great liner, like the British Majestic and Berengaria, is too large and expensive for practical operation, he said.

FIREWORKS CAUSE OF 3 FIRES ON FOURTH

Fireworks, Ignited by Firecrackers, Injure Man Who Attempts to Put Out Blaze.

Fireworks caused three of the seven fires reported yesterday and early today, which did several thousand dollars damage and injured one person.

A stock of fireworks on the platform in front of a confectionery store at 711 North Eighteenth street was ignited while small boys were setting off other firecrackers and similar explosives at 1:45 p. m. The front of the store was damaged in the explosion and impromptu pyrotechnical display that followed, and Thomas Sturgeon, 25 years old, of 1636 Franklin avenue, suffered burns on the hands while trying to extinguish the blaze.

The roof of a 3-story brick building at 822 Wash street caught fire from fireworks being set off there at 12:30 a. m. today, damaging the building $200 and the home of an Italian family on the third floor $100.

A skyrocket fell on the roof of the house at 3646 Cottage avenue at 10 p. m., causing a fire which damaged the roof $115.

An investigation is being made of a fire which broke out at 3 a. m. yesterday on the sixth floor of a 9-story brick building at 414-18 North Twelfth street. Firemen reported the discovery of a five-gallon container of coal oil on that floor, occupied by the Gram Neckwear Co. The fire was confined to the sixth floor, and water damage was slight to the stocks of firms below. The neckwear concern occupies the fifth floor, also. The building is owned by the Langenberg Hat Co., 1112 Washington avenue.

Damage in another fire of unexplained origin, which was reported at 1:15 a. m. today, in the two-story brick structure at 2700 South Fourth street, was estimated at $2000.

Three shops in the building at 714-18 Franklin avenue were damaged at an estimated total of $850 in a blaze of undetermined origin at midnight last night. The shop at 1430 North Fourteenth street suffered $200 damage in a fire at 11:25 p. m.

WABASH OFFERS MODIFIED DELMAR GRADE CROSSING PLAN

City Officials Agree to Give Scheme Consideration—Slight Depression of Tracks Proposed.

A compromise plan, drawn by Wabash railroad engineers, for the Delmar grade crossing, which is declared to be a modification of the plan made by the city's engineers, was offered today at a conference of officials of the city and the railroad, held at the Chamber of Commerce, and attended by officers of that body.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service agreed, with Mayor Kiel's sanction, to consider the plan to be submitted by the railroad engineers. President Taussig of the Wabash said, after the conference, that an agreement was reached by which a compromise plan would be prepared, but that he did not think it had been outlined yet. It is understood that an essential feature of the compromise would be depression of the tracks, making possible a lower elevation for the viaduct than that proposed by the city, as the city's plan was based on the present track grade. This change would also affect other viaduct plans.

ALL SECTS JOIN IN MEETING

By the Associated Press.

GOSHEN, N. Y., July 5.—Catholics, Jews and Protestants joined last night in a patriotic-religious Independence day service and heard Supreme Court Justice A. S. Tompkins, grand master of Masons in this state, counsel the Ku Klux Klan to love its neighbors and raze the barriers it has erected against races and creeds.

The ceremony was held in the Presbyterian church, under auspices of the Knights of Columbus, with Rev. Father J. H. McGinnis presiding. Justice Tompkins, a Baptist, was the principal speaker. Catholic ushers shepherded the 1000 Methodists, Episcopalians, Jews and members of other denominations who filled the pews and aisles and overflowed into the streets.

WHIPPING CASE DEFENSE RESTS

Higginbotham May Re-Open Testimony After State's Rebuttal.

By the Associated Press.

LAKE CITY, Fla., July 5.—Taking of testimony was concluded after several character witnesses were heard and proceedings had been delayed for two hours by the illness of one of the jurors.

The defense had under consideration the calling of approximately 200 more character witnesses if the State should carry out its reported intention of attempting to impeach the testimony of Dr. T. Capers Jones, former camp physician for the Putnam Lumber Co. Jones was asked on the stand yesterday as to a reported conversation between himself and J. E. Johnson, his brother-in-law, in which the former is alleged to have told Johnson that "Higginbotham flogged Tabert to death." The physician emphatically denied such a conversation had taken place.

Johnson is here as a State witness, but so far has not been called to the stand.

UNABLE TO PLUG BORDER LEAK

Dry Agent Admits Inability to Cope With Canadian Liquor Flow.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Liquor is pouring over the Canadian border faster than prohibition agents can stop it, R. Q. Merrick, divisional prohibition field chief for New York and New Jersey, said today. Thirty-three automobiles loaded with liquor from Canada were captured in June by Northern New York forces, he declared, admitting that many other cars safely entered the state for want of a force big enough to stop them.

NEGROES SAY WHITE MAN CAN KEEP THEM CONTENT IN SOUTH

Conference of Their Leaders in Georgia Issues Summary of Conditions Complained of.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 5.—Negroes, as a race, do not desire to leave Georgia and the South, and the remedy for existing conditions is in the hands of the white man, according to a communication addressed to the General Assembly and the people of Georgia by a conference of negro leaders here yesterday.

The conference was presided over by Bishop J. F. Flipper, of the African Methodist Episcopal church. While declaring this opposition to any migration of the negro, Bishop Flipper said he thought the negro should have the right to scatter to all parts of the union.

The communication, which it is proposed to have printed for distribution to members of the Legislature and throughout the State, sets forth evils under which the negroes assert they labor in this State. These include: low wages for farm labor; poor housing conditions; bad working conditons on plantations managed by overseers in the absence of the owners; lack of educational facilities; poor accommodations for negroes when traveling; inequality in the enforcement of laws; the contract labor law, and mob violence.

The Legislature was urged to pass an anti-lynching law, several speakers declaring they would prefer to see such a law among the State statutes than to have it passed by the Federal Government.

SOVIET RECEIVES GIANT PLANE

Germans Deliver First of Series of New Aluminum Type.

By the Associated Press.

BERNE, July 5.—The first of a series of giant airplanes ordered by the Russian soviet government from the German works at Friedrichshafen, Lake Constance, was delivered in Moscow yesterday. The planes, of a new type of the Dormier comet, built almost exclusively of aluminum, carry four passengers besides the pilot and mechanic. They have engines of 200-horsepower, with an average speed of 100 miles an hour.

The Russian Government announces its intention of using the planes on its Ukranian service.

BANK OF ENGLAND RAISES RATE

Increase to 4 Per Cent Had Been Expected.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 5.—The Bank of England today raised its rate to 4 per cent from the 3 per cent, which had prevailed for a year. The increase caused little surprise as events recently had been moving rapidly toward such action. At the same time there is considerable opinion against raising the official minimum at a time when trade is so bad and Great Britain's purchases of food and raw material in the United States and South America must be financed. It, therefore, was hoped that the authorities would not have recourse to such a step.

MAN BURNED BY EXPLOSION

Gasoline Tank in Garage Blows Up as Truck Backfires.

Stanley Hess, 22, of 2819 Lafayette avenue, was burned on the neck and arms at 9 a. m. yesterday when a truck which he was cranking in a garage at the rear of his home, backfired and caused a 25-gallon tank of gasoline in the place to explode. He was taken to city hospital. The truck was damaged $1500 and the garage and tank $300.

Varicose Veins Are Speedily Reduced and Terrible Eczema Goes Quickly

Strong, Powerful Yet Safe, Surgeons' Prescription Called Moone's Emerald Oil, Has Astonished Physicians.

There is one simple and inexpensive way to reduce dangerous, swollen veins and bunches, and get them down to normal, and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning. People who have painful, enlarged veins should not neglect them for they sometimes burst and cause much misery and loss of time.

Moone's Emerald Oil, besides being so marvelously antiseptic that it at once destroys germs and poisons caused by germs, is such a remarkable healing agent that eczema, barbers' itch, salt rheum and other inflammatory skin eruptions go in a few days. Piles are quickly absorbed and even goitres, wens and enlarged glands are dissolved.

For years it has been used in hospitals for boils, carbuncles, ulcers, abscesses and open sores, and with the most perfect success. With each original bottle which any pharmacist can supply you, is a folder that gives instructions for use in all of the above distressing complaints. Your druggist will be glad to supply you.

HOBO
Kidney & Bladder Remedy
Gets Results!

"Homer La. Dec. 30, 1921.
Our boy has been in bad health for years with chronic "Bright's Disease." We have now used the second bottle of your "Hobo" remedy with very satisfactory results.
Yours very truly,
S. R. Collins.

P.S.—I felt that you would not want a testimonial that was too "gushing" so I am putting it mild in the above.
I doubt very much if we could have kept him in school had it not been for the medicine. I know that the boy has improved much since we began the use of this remedy."

Hobo is an effective balm for kidney and bladder treatment. It offers new hope and health to sufferers of all ages. Made of herbs—no alcohol, no habit-forming drugs.
Druggists sell it at $1.20 per bottle.

NEGRO SAID TO BE WORTH $100,000 DIES

W. C. Gordon Accumulated His Estate in 30 Years in Undertaking Business.

W. C. Gordon, 55 years old, a negro undertaker who is said to have accumulated $100,000 in the 30 years he has been engaged in the undertaking business here, died unexpectedly of heart disease in bed at his home, 4221W Cote Brilliante avenue, at 6 a. m. today. His health apparently had been excellent.

Gordon, the son of slave parents in Tennessee, entered the undertaking business here while still a Pullman porter. Previously he had worked on a farm, in an iron foundry and in a rock quarry. He had no education, and until of late years, when he studied under private tutors, could hardly read or write his name.

His first undertaking business was a partnership, but he later sold out for $2255 and used his money to establish the undertaking business from which he built his fortune. He is said to have been one of the first negro undertakers in the country.

He owned his own home, the undertaking establishment at 2649-51 Morgan street, a tenement house on Market street, and flats and houses on Pendleton avenue, Garfield avenue, Lucky street and Morgan street. He was also a member of the Douglas Life Insurance Co., and is said to have considerable bond holdings.

Gordon's friends say his personal popularity was instrumental in aiding him in building up his estate. He was a member of virtually every negro fraternal organization in St. Louis, and was District Deputy Grand Master of the Independent Order of 12, Knights and Daughters of Tabor.

He contributed $1000 to the Pine Street (negro) Y. M. C. A. building, and was a member of the executive committee of that organization. He also contributed liberally to Tuskegee Institute and to negro charitable and improvement associations, and was active in church work.

Gordon served with Booker T. Washington on the board of the National Negro Business League for years, and entertained Washington at his home here on several occasions. He was the first director of the National Negro Funeral Directors' Association. His widow, a son and a daughter, survive.

MORE THAN EIGHT MILLION PACKAGES OF BLACK AND WHITE ARE SOLD YEARLY

Sale Each Year Growing by Leaps and Bounds, Is of Tremendous Importance to Women.

Although placed on sale only a few years ago, such complexion necessities as Black and White Cleansing and Peroxide Cream, as well as many others, are now outselling most of the older and better known articles, and for no other reason than their unusual merit, uniform quality and popular low prices.

Many druggists and dealers who sell toilet articles say that they have never seen the equal of Black and White Beauty Creations for solving the skin and complexion problem for old as well as young women who had never before been able to find the right method of caring for their skin.

A few years ago Black and White Beauty creations were unknown. Today they are selling at the rate of more than twenty thousand packages a day for every one of the 365 days in the year, or a total of more than eight million packages a year.

From the biggest stores in the large cities, to the smallest cross-roads country store miles away from even a railroad, Black and White Beauty creations are being sold in ever-increasing quantities, with the result that the manufacturers have been forced to move into larger quarters three different times during the last four years. Even the present plants, which occupy a total floor space of 105,000 square feet, are taxed to full capacity in the effort to keep up with orders received every day from all parts of the country.

BECAUSE of the unusual quality of remaining thin and free-running like water, Linit penetrates every thread of the fabric. This reinforces the strength of the fabric, helps prevent wear, and prolongs the life of the material.

New Starch Discovery

LINIT is a scientific starch discovery—distinctly different from old-fashioned starches. It was originally made for the makers of fine fabrics who had to secure the finest possible finish.

Now, for the first time, it is offered to the housewife. With Linit you can get the same wonderful finish you have always admired in goods that come direct from the store.

Linit gives a soft, cool, pliable finish to your garments. And you will find your Linit-starched clothes and fabrics remain clean and fresh much longer. Also, Linit makes even ordinary cotton goods look and feel like expensive linen.

Important to You

LINIT makes a THIN "MILKY" MIXTURE, free-running like water, which is quickly absorbed by the fabric, thus saving the time and labor of "smearing on", which was customary with old-fashioned starches. The Linit mixture does not present the stiff, jelly-like appearance of ordinary starch. This is why you will find it much easier to iron with Linit.

Your grocer now has Linit, 10c

Linit is made by the Corn Products Refining Company—makers of the famous Argo Starch, Karo Syrup and Mazola Salad and Cooking Oil.

MADISON SALOON FEUD CAUSES FATAL SHOOTING

Nick Poulous Dies After Being Wounded 4 Times; Building Later Set on Fire.

A feud bewteen two saloon men in Madison resulted today in the death of one and an attempt to destroy the saloon and home of the other by fire.

Nick Poulous, 28 years old, employed in the saloon of Dan Angeloff at Fifth and G streets, Madison, was shot four times in the head in the saloon at 9:15 o'clock last night, and died at 9:15 a. m. today, at St. Elizabeth's hospital in Granite City.

James Kosta, 40, proprietor of a saloon at Seventh and State streets, was arrested ofter the shooting. The police report he gave himself up. Angeloff is the only witness from whom a statement has been obtained.

His statement is said to be that Kosta came into the saloon with a drawn weapon and began firing. Another report which the police mention as "not verified" is that Poulous fired twice at Kosta as the latter entered the saloon. No weapon was found on Poulous. He had been shot four times in the head.

Poulous is said to have telephoned Kosta at the latter's saloon, asking him to come up to see him. The two men were in business together at the Kosta place, but separated less than a year ago, Poulous going to the Angeloff saloon and Kosta continuing as proprietor of his establishment on State street.

At 11:30 p. m. a fire alarm was sent in from the oKsta place and firemen arrived in time to prevent serious damage. The mattresses and bedding upstairs over the saloon had been soaked with oil, and oil had been thrown over the saloon premises.

Kosta's wife had gone after the shooting to the jail, locking the saloon, and no exidence of a forceful entrance was noticeable. The intruders are thought to have had a duplicate key. The cash register with all Kosta's money on hand was taken. He said he did not know the amount.

Wood Bars More Russian Refugees.

MANILA, July 5.—Declaring that the American Government already has done its share in caring for 800 Russian refugees from Vladivostok, whom it recently transported to the United States, Governor-General Leonard Wood today announced that another 100 refugees from the same place, now in Shanghai, would not be allowed to come to the Philippines. Of the 160 Russians who left the main body of refugees, to work in the Davao hemp fields several months ago, only a few have shown the necessary stamina. Recently, when more than 600 of their companions left Manila for the United States aboard the army transport Merritt, most of the hemp field workers deserted their jobs and flocked to Davao in an effort to get free transportation to America.

Scenario Writer Ends Life.

LOS ANGELES, July 5.—Robert Crozier Scott, playwright and scenario writer, was found dead in his room yesterday, his throat having been cut. The police pronounced it a case of suicide and said they found papers showing that Scott's wife had filed a suit for divorce.

ERIN TRANQUIL, HEALY SAYS

Free State Governor Asserts Irish Prisoners Are Being Freed.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 5.—"Ireland today is as tranquil as Great Britain," said Timothy Healy, Governor-General of the Irish Free State, in an interview with the Daily Express prior to his return to Ireland last evening, after conversations with the imperial authorities here regarding Irish affairs. "The Free State is now established definitely despite the internal assaults that have been made upon it," he said.

He added that now peace had been established, the Free State Government was intently preoccupied with how to terminate a situation in which, to its sorrow, it found itself still holding 10,000 Irishmen. The Government's purpose, he said, was to release these prisoners as rapidly as possible without exposing the public to a recrudescence of disorders. They are now being freed at the rate of about 300 weekly. The Governor-General complained at the continued refusal of the Northern Government to appoint a boundary commissioner to co-operate with Great Britain and the Free State in settling the boundary between the two divisions of the country.

Writ Issued in Oil Stock Case.

The Illinois Supreme Court has issued a writ of supersedeas to stay the execution of a prison sentence of from one to 10 years imposed on Dr. John G. Massie of Belleville in April in connection with the sale of stock in the Illgahoma Gasoline and Petroleum Co., of which he was president. The Supreme Court now will review the evidence in the case.

OREGON'S RECEPTION OF PRESIDENT HARDING MOST COLORFUL AND PICTURESQUE

Executive Particularly Impressed by Parade in Portland in Which British Troops, Sailors and Marines Participated.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, With President Harding on His Tour.

TACOMA, Wash., July 5.—President Harding took with him today, on his departure for Alaska on the Transport Henderson, the memory of the most enthusiastic, colorful and picturesque greeting he received on his transcontinental tour—the greeting given by eastern Oregon at Meacham and by Portland in the west.

Portland, city of roses, and on yesterday at least a city of sunshine, pinned a rose on the President and bade him God speed at a mammoth Fourth of July celebration, culminating in the gathering of 15,000 or 20,000 people on Multnomah field to hear the President speak. Incidentally, the police of Portland rounded up and threw into jail, apparently on general principles, a score of members of the I. W. W., lest they inject a discordant note into the day's festivities.

Portland began to welcome the President early in the morning, when a delegation boarded his special train to ask permission for British sailors and marines to march in the parade in his honor. Judge Welliever, one of the President's staff, was routed out in his pajamas.

British Navy Sets Precedent.

Never before in history had a contingent of the British navy marched in an American Fourth of July parade. But what did precedents amount to in this day of sunshine and roses, 147 years away from the great separation?

The British troops, two companies of sailors and one company of marines from H. M. S. Curlew, in harbor at Portland, had got permission from their Government to take part in the parade. They were eager, so the President was told, to march. And march they did, with a precision and a snap that would have won applause even if the sentimental nature of the occasion hadn't demanded it. The President, reviewing the parade, clapped his hands as the Britishers filed past, and later, in his speech, made feeling reference to the incident. He saw in it a symbol of the kinship and the common aspirations of the English-speaking peoples. "I hope," he said, amid applause, "that representatives of the British and American navies may always march together in the proud processions of peace."

The Portland parade was more than the usual procession of shiny new cars bearing the presidential party. The day was the Fourth, and Portland was staging a dual celebration. If ever a city succeeded in putting its best foot forward for a President, Portland succeeded yesterday. Smiling skies helped, and the British sailors, and our own troops, and the veterans of our wars.

Flowers, Girls and Children.

But the greatest contribution was that of flowers and girls and children. Flowers, flowers pinned on every visitor, flowers thrown on the streets over which the procession passed, flowers, larkspur, roses, hollyhocks. A wealth of varieties covering a score of automobiles in which were Portland's prettiest girls. Hundreds of children, Boy Scouts in their khaki uniforms and boys and girls dressed as flowers were in the parade. Massed in front of the reviewing stand, they made a charming picture.

The President and Mrs. Harding shook hands with as many as could get to the railing and then made them a little speech about the splendid opportunity that was theirs as free American citizens.

After all that, after the flowers and girls and children, why should anyone go and stand or sit in the sun to hear a speech? But go a great many did for that was the thing to do in Portland yesterday. The meeting was in the open, on Multnomah Athletic Field. Five thousand favored ones, including the Ohio Society, sat in a covered grandstand and the others packed themselves, standing, on the open field. Governor Pierce of Oregon said that 25,000 were there and the estimate probably was not much too high. It was a very successful meeting, even though the Governor did introduce the President as "William G. Harding."

Exclusion Ideas Liked.

What the President had to say about immigration made an especial appeal in this costal region which likes the exclusion idea. Everywhere, he said, there was assault on the percentage law. Doubtless, he went on, there was need of man power in industry, but he preferred waiting jobs to idle men and he chose quality rather than quantity in future immigration. Thousands, the President continued, were getting into the country illegally. That led to the remark that the aspirant to American citizenship who breaks the law to gain admission makes a poor beginning, and gives little promise of useful citizenship.

"I would like to acclaim the day when there is no room in America anywhere," the President continued, "for those who defy the law, and those who seek our hospitality for the purpose of destroying our institutions should be deported or held securely behind prison walls. We must gurard very zealously against those who work within our borders to destroy the very institutions which have given them hospitality."

The Ku Klux Klan is reputedly strong in this section and there had been considerable curiosity as to whether the President would mention the movement in his speech. He kept away from it. No local toes were trod upon in any part of his speech.

Applauded on Court Plan.

The President again appealed in extemporaneous remarks for American participation in the World Court, which he declared held out a fine promise of maintained peace throughout the world. There was cordial applause for the World Court policy.

As there has been every time he has mentioned it on his tour. Neither at Portland nor anywhere else since St. Louis has the President gone into the details of what critics on his train are calling the second Missouri compromise. He has not again mentioned reservations or his proposal to make the court self perpetuating. But has contented himself with general praise of the court idea.

So much for Portland and its appeal to the eye it made a brave show for the President and he was away properly delighted. In one quarter of the city numerous men along the parade route wore red tags with the inscription, "Release all political and class war prisoners." But there was so much color of another sort, so much flag waving, so much band playing, so much marching by "Rosarians" in white, so many flowers, that the red tags didn't attract much attention.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS ON COURT PLAN AND AMERICAN IDEALS

Executive Asserts He Wants U. S. to Exert Influence for Peace by Joining International Tribunal.

WOULD DEPORT ALIENS WHO BREAK LAWS

Also Discusses Transportation Problem in Independence Day Address at Portland, Ore.

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 5.—President Harding was the "orator of the day" of Portland's Independence day celebration, and in his address, delivered at Multnomah Athletic Field, he made a plea for reconsecration to American ideals and purposes and urged that the United States move to avoid war by doing "one thing more"—adhering to the permanent court of international justice.

"Every man wearing the habiliments of an American citizen must be an American in his heart and soul," the chief executive declared. "I would like to acclaim the day when there is no room in America, anywhere, for those who defy the law and those who seek our hospitality for the purpose of destroying our institutions, should be deported or held securely behind prison walls."

"There is one thing more we can do," he asserted, after concluding his Americanization appeal. "We want no more of war. To that end I have asked the Senate to give its assent to American participation in the permanent court of international justice. I want America to give of its influence to bring about a universal peace."

Introduced by Governor.

Gov. Pierce in introducing the President brought forth cheers by pledging the support of Oregon to the chief executive "in enforcing all laws, including the prohibition amendment." The cheers turned to laughter when the Governor introduced the executive as "our President, William G. Harding."

The President prefaced his address by declaring "a bit of history was recorded today in Portland, for never until today had a contingent of British naval forces marched in an Independence Day parade."

The President then traced the half century of growth and development after the civil war, and declared that the nation, however, "had been guilty of one gross neglect."

"We are so eager to explore our boundless national wealth," he asserted, "we were so keen for that development which makes communities and in their aggregate makes the greater nation, that we called to the man power of the world to come and participate.

Source of Population.

"And the men of the world came. They came from the lands of the oppressed, to drink freely of the waters of our political life. They came from the lands of caste and classes, to stand erect in the invigorating air of American freedom. They came from the realms of hopeless struggle to embrace the freedom of our beckoning opportunity.

"They came, not by hundreds or by thousands, but by unnumbered millions, in the flood tide of human migration to a new home in the land of the free. They joined in the development and we wrought the miracle of accomplishment; but we omitted the consecration at the altars of our freedom. The gates at the port of entry swung inward and no conditions were prescribed. We invited inhabitants, without demanding citizenship. We bestowed the privileges and advantages of citizenship without demanding the assumption of its duties and its obligations. We enlarged numerically, but neglected the declaration of American faith.

"The World War brought the great awakening. With our variety of nativity and no racial entity, it required the threat of a national peril, and the endangering of civilization itself, to bring us to a realization. But when five million of our manhood were equipped for war, and ten million were enrolled in readiness, and ninety million were answering every call of duty and ready for every sacrifice, we found the American soul and we discovered those who knew it was not. Then hyphenism disappeared. In a nation-wide reconsecration we firmly resolved that every man embracing American opportunity must pledge American loyalty. Every man wearing the habiliments of an American citizen must be an American in his heart and soul.

Doesn't Forget Colonists.

"No, we do not forget that the colonists came from varied lands, that essentially all of Europe was represented in our war for independence, nor that in the blend of peoples was developed our best and strongest citizenship. It was undeniable that up to the time of the World War there was none but the Indian whom we could call distinctly American; but from this time on there shall be one, we all shall be—the citizen of the United States who subscribes to the American concept of freedom and justice and who subscribed his devotion to this republic before any other power on earth.

"We are having our problems in handling immigration right now. Congress has placed a restriction on the number of foreigners to be admitted, and there is assault everywhere to break down the barriers. Doubtless there is need for larger man-power in renewed industrial activities and our more fortunate conditions in America are attracting the longing gaze of millions in the Old World. But I prefer waiting jobs to idle men, and I choose quality rather than quantity in future immigration.

"Thousands are finding their way across our borders or through our ports every month in defiance or evasion of the law, because of our insufficient regulations or inadequate provisions for enforcement of restrictions provided by the law. The aspirant to American citizenship who breaks the law to gain admission makes a poor beginning and gives little promise of useful citizenship. I would like to acclaim the day when there is no room in America, anywhere, for those who defy the law and those who seek our hospitality for the purpose of destroying our institutions should be deported or held securely behind prison walls. It is a great thing, my countrymen, to build up the surpassing republic, but it is a greater thing to preserve it.

Little Fear From Attack.

"This land of ours has little to fear from those who attack from outside our borders, but we must guard very zealously against those who work within our borders, to destroy the very institutions which have given them hospitality. A republic worth living in is worth living for; and a republic worth defending is worth our patriotic vigilance, so that it shall not be undermined by those who preach the gospel of envy and hate or destroyed in experiments against which 40 centuries of human experience cry out in protest.

"One hundred and forty-seven years ago today the inspired fathers proclaimed the American freedom on which our people have builded to the wonder and astonishment of the world. Let us duly resolve today that in our grateful appreciation it shall be sacredly preserved.

"A little while ago I made reference to the two contending schools of American politics. It must have been destined that the nationalist school should triumph. Every new experience, every larger aspiration confirms the national viewpoint. I know of none in all the land who is desirous of abridging the rights of states. Few, if any, could be charged with Federal responsibility for any considerable period without wishing to diminish that responsibility.

National in Common Destiny.

"Traveling across the continent one may hastily survey states ample in domain and resources to be empires in themselves. If they were content to wall themselves within their borders and diversify their productivity they could live and prosper within themselves alone. But nobody in America wishes to live that way. We are national in our vast areas, in our larger aspirations, in our practicable helpfulness for each other; we are national in our common destiny.

"The broader viewpoint is not limited to defense alone, because we mean so to deport ourselves and so appeal to honor and love and justice among others, that we shall never again be called to wage armed warfare.

"Only the broadest national viewpoint makes possible the vast projects of irrigation, reclamation and power development through Federal aid in which the West is so deeply interested. The immediate gain is within the state or the group of states; but the added wealth and the larger achievements is a national triumph.

Nation's Concern in Highways.

"Only the broadest national viewpoint could sanction $75,000,000 annually to be paid out of the Federal treasury in improved road construction. Many of the states have largely improved their roads at their own expense, as they were well prepared to do and from the strictly state viewpoint there is little concern in New York or New England about road improvement in Idaho or Oregon, but the nation is concerned about improved communication, cheapened and efficient transportation; and out of the national wealth we contribute to aid the newer states and make a greater land and a happier people.

"We are confronted with no greater problem than transportation, both by rail and water. Only national solution is possible. You can have no merchant marine if that problem be left to those states alone which border the salt seas; you can hope for no international and waterways where the states directly interested are to assume the cost; and the railway problem is especially national in scope and only a Federal plan will provide an amole solution. Everywhere the nationalist viewpoint is impelling, compelling and in our closer ties, our interpendent relationships and common aspirations and purposes, we are 48 for 1 and 1 for 48; and we are all for our territories, because our flag is there and wherever it floats it must represent the conscience and the faith of the whole republic."

First of the 1923 Quota of Immigrants to Land in America

—International Photograph.

CESARA LITLERANA, the first immigrant admitted under the Italian quota for 1923, photographed as he set foot in New York after passing inspection at Ellis Island. Cesara, who is a bricklayer by trade, proudly announced that his highest ambition is to become a citizen of the United States.

Cesara came over on the President Wilson, which won the race over the dozen other steamships with immigrants from many lands that were hurrying to be the first to get into New York. She reached quarantine at two minutes after 12 o'clock last Sunday morning, and was, therefore, the first to be permitted to discharge her cargo at Ellis Island.

Cesara happened to be the first called for inspection at Ellis Island, and, in that way, became the first of the year's immigrants.

Ascendancy to Power of Some Leaders of Race Does Not Save Believers From Persecution and Intensifies Outside Anti-Semitism

Samuel Spewack was for more than a year staff correspondent of The New York World and the Post-Dispatch in Russia, with headquarters at Moscow, the Soviet capital. He was born in Russia and his qualifications, with newspaper training in the United States, were unsurpassed for observation and understanding of the great experiment now being made in the former Empire of the Czars.

The censor has forbidden much and changed more of the pictures of life in Russia that have been offered to the outer world. Now that Spewack has left Russia, he is able to tell the truth about all that he saw. This he has done in these dispatches written in Riga while the memory is still fresh of the things regarding which he was not able to bring out a written record.

By SAMUEL SPEWACK,

(Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

RIGA, May 10.—Anti-Jewish feeling has intensified both inside and outside Russia since the inauguration of the soviet war on religion. Yet the tragic irony of it is that a rabbi occupies a cell adjoining that of a priest; synagogues have been seized by the League of Communist Youth; sacred holidays have been profaned.

Nevertheless in Poland, Latvia, Finland and other border states the execution of Mgr. Butchkevitch has been used to fan smoldering anti-Semitism. The fact is that much of the pious indignation in these states was cradled in expediency, political and religious. In actual practice none of these states can lay pretentions to much more religious freedom than exists in Russia.

Always there has been an undercurrent of belief, sometimes not openly expressed, that the Jews run Russia. I took particular pains to assemble the story of the Russian Jew. Briefly it is:

1. The ascension of the soviets removed religious discrimination. Formerly Jews could not live in Moscow or Petrograd. All racial restrictions also were abolished.

2. But religious persecution was revived—not against Jews as Jews, but as believers in an organized faith.

3. The Jewish Communists attack the orthodox members of their race with more savagery than those of other faiths.

4. Such leaders of Russia as are Jews are communists first and Russians afterward. They are, of course, atheists. Their ancestry has no more effect upon their thoughts or acts than the color of their eyes.

Famine Starts Persecution.

Probably the outstanding figure in the story of the Russian Jew is Rabbi Boreshansky of Gomel. He spent seven months in jail. He had invaded a meeting of Jewish Communists and called them hypocrites. This was deemed counter-revolution. He is now under house-arrest. His main desire is to leave Russia. His most cherished possession is a derby hat sent by an admirer in Newark, N. J.

Grim humor plays through the story. In Minsk the Jewish Communists forbade the baking of unleavened bread for Easter. The bakers protested. The prohibition would cut into their profits. So a compromise was reached; chunks of black bread must be thrown into the unleavened product—which was done.

The whole attitude of the Government toward the orthodox Jews was disclosed in an editorial in the official Pravda. Bucharin, the red-haired litterateur of the Soviets, said: "If necessary, we will also hang the clerical representatives of Kuhn, Loeb & Co."

Religious persecution of the Jews on an extensive scale began with the famine. Various relief organizations sent money and goods to committees of Jews in Russia. Almost invariably one or two rabbis were members of these committees.

With characteristic psychology, the Communists decided distribution of food to the needy by rabbis would give organized religion too great a power over the masses. So a decree was issued forbidding these committees to dispense charity. The money and goods were turned over to the Jewish Communists.

Jew Used Against Jew.

Further, another decree was issued, prohibiting the needy from appealing directly to relief organizations for help without first consulting the Government. Violators of either decree were punished severely.

Of all the nonsense written in condemnation of the Soviets—and the character of most of the criticism is such that an impartial observer is almost tempted to swing to the other side in reaction—none is less justifiable than the statement that the Jewish Communists are in the ascendancy.

The Jewish Communists' job, as an organized body, is to attack the orthodox faith of members of their own race. As a body they are politically unimportant. Trotsky, Zinovieff, Kameneff and Radeck have the same degree of influence they had two years ago. They are Communists. The Jewish Communists formed an organization for the spreading of Communism among members of their own race which is directed by the smaller fry in the party. The big leaders, who have been born Jews, are not identified with this movement as such.

In Poltava and Berditcheff the Jewish Communists, augmented by the League of Communist Youth, seized a series of synagogues. In Simperopol the Jewish Communists sought to profane Easter by announcing a competition for the unleavened bread concession for the town. Here, too, a group of Jews and several rabbis were arrested, at the instigation of the Jewish Communists, for "uniting with the Tikhonits in counter-revolution, hiding of church treasures, and resistance to Soviet decrees."

Slightest Pretext Seized.

Chief Rabbi Eistenadt of Petrograd was arrested. The Jewish communists sought for a long time to punish him because he continued to attack them publicly and privately. They discovered he violated one of the many provisions in the soviet decrees by failing to keep certain papers in a certain place in his synagogue. They conferred with the Che-Ka, and the chief rabbi was cited for trial.

In Brosoff the Jewish communists organized a gigantic anti-Yom-Kippur parade. Orthodox Jews stoned the paraders. The Che-Ka arrested scores of spectators. The chief synagogue was captured by the Jewish communists, and is now used as their headquarters.

The Jews in Minsk, who form half the population, have been treated to an antireligious propaganda far more extensive than was attempted in Moscow or Petrograd. The orthodox Jews in that city, incidentally, attach superstitious significance to two incidents in connection with anti-religious demonstrations:

The anti-Yom Kippur parade was the most blasphemous and elaborate in Russia. Caricatures of the city's rabbis were flaunted everywhere. Mock services were held. Synagogues were serenaded with coarse chansonettes. The next day the son of the chief organizer of the parade committed suicide, for reasons far removed from the parade.

Then came the Christmas demonstrations. A great torchlight procession marched down the principal street. A wind had risen, and two of the participants were caught in a swirl of fire. Both died in the hospital of their injuries.

The Jews are in a peculiar position. During the Czarist regime they had no caste. They were legally discriminated against. Quotas were maintained at universities for them. That is why many turned revolutionaries.

Orthodox Jew Suffers.

Yet the orthodox today find more active interference in worship than previously. True, pogroms are gone. But the Jews had hoped with the rest of the Russian masses that the revolution would bring freedom.

Internally anti-Semitism is increasing. The peasant always seeks a goat, and he chooses the Jew. In Odessa anti-Jewish riots were arranged the morning after several churches and monasteries had been seized. Throughout the Ukraine Jews are accused of persecuting the priests.

All this shows that the Jew has not escaped the religious persecution because several atheist members of his race happen to be in power. The fact is that the Mohammedan faith is the only one not interfered with by the soviet government, and that because of the foreign policy which aims at attracting the Eastern peoples.

I have talked with leading Communists who are Jews, as differentiated from Jewish Communists, a distinct organization. Take Kameneff. For 25 years he has been a revolutionary. He thinks along Marxian and Russian lines. He has no religion, and feels no kinship with his race. He is no more a Jew than the second generation of a Russian immigrant is Russian.

Trotzky, also, is distinctly a Russian, and an internationalist. Yet he cannot take Lenin's place because he is a Jew and because of the anti-Jewish feeling that would nullify attempts to make him the great popular figure.

As well accuse the Poles of the death of Butchkevich because Dzinsky, head of the Che-Ka, was a Polish Catholic, or accuse the Irish of the Red Terror because "Red" Peters, who, by the way, is now a judge, was born in the Baltics.

To the Communist, Jews and Christians are equally nauseating if they believe in anything he does not approve of. It is religion, as a whole, the soviet government is fighting. Any sane observer in Russia cannot help seeing this fundamental fact.

ANTISALOON LEAGUE COUNSEL COMMENDS HARDING'S STAND

Wheeler Tells Christian Endeavorers President's Challenge to New York State Was Right.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 5.—President Harding was praised by Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the Antisaloon League of America, in his address before the International Christian Endeavor convention, in session here, last night. Wheeler's address was on "Patriotism's Challenge for Law and Order."

"If the teachers of our next generation do not witness the downfall of orderly liberty and the rule of right and see a return to anarchy and the rule of might, Christian Endeavor can and must help to create the sentiment that will make scoffings at the United States Constitution unpopular," said Wheeler. "President Harding was right in his challenge to New York State recently, when he reminded them of Lincoln's great pronouncement that a nation could not remain half slave and half free, nor can it at this time remain half loyal and half disloyal. If you like the law or not, as long as it is regularly adopted it is our business to obey it."

Wheeler appealed to all the delegates from foreign countries to use their influence in their respective countries to prevent their countries from being used as a base for defying the prohibition laws of the United States.

Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder of the Christian Endeavor and its president, in the keynote speech, announced a two years' campaign to strengthen "tens of thousands of churches through the conversion and training of youth."

The addresses were preceded by the report of E. P. Gates of Boston, general secretary of the organization. The society, he said, has added 10,971 new local bodies to its rolls since July 1, 1921.

RAILROADS PRESENT CASE AGAINST U. S. VALUATIONS

Arguments Before I. C. Commission —Hearing Will Continue Three Days.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Controversies over Federal valuation of railroads came up for argument today before the Interstate Commerce Commission. A brief in behalf of the National Conference on Valuation of American railroads has been filed with the commission. The hearing will continue three days.

In nearly all cases the roads concerned attack the tentative valuation announced by the commission for their property as too small. State railroad commissions in some instances have represented the valuation as too great, in part or in whole.

Railroads have taken a double ground in attacking the commission's tentative findings. They contend that repreductions costs would entitle them to a much higher valuation. They also have asked the inclusion of "intangible assets," going concern values, good will and the like.

TOKIO CONFEREES DEADLOCKED

Japanese and Soviet Representatives Far From Agreement.

Special Wireless to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News. (Copyright, 1923.)

TOKIO, July 5.—The possibility of a Russian-Japanese accord growing out of the negotiations now in progress here are growing remote. Daily discussions are disclosing wide gaps between the two countries which are unbridgeable unless both Governments change their present attitudes. Both sides show an unwillingness to budge in their contention.

The sudden change of both press and public from advocacy of Soviet recognition to cool indifference, while attributed in some quarters to Dr. Joffe's "overbearing attitude" now seems to come from realization that the two countries cannot agree. The present pourparlers seem doomed to complete failure unless the conferees stop seeking to settle present difficulties in the first conference and instead agree upon an agenda for a future official conference.

RECOGNITION COMMISSIONERS IN MEXICO MAKE PROGRESS

Adjustments of American Property Rights Remain to Be Settled by July 14.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, July 5.—Coincident with a meeting last evening at Chapultepec Castle of the United States and Mexican recognition commissioners, together with President Obregon and Secretary of the Treasury De La Huerta, it was stated authoritatively that "very gratifying progress" had been made recently in conciliating the views of the two Governments on Mexica's petroleum and agrarian policies.

Agreement has been reached on more than two-thirds of the questions at issue, although the remainder contains some of the most important points. Confidence was expressed that it would be possible to determine within a few days whether the two delegations will reach a settlement of the vital issues; but it was added that in any case the conference would not continue beyond July 14 unless it was for the purpose of cleaning up details.

Preliminary consideration is already being given to the two claims conventions which will follow signature of the agreement. These conventions will provide for a settlement under a neutral umpire of American claims against Mexico, and vice versa.

One problem still awaiting solution, it is understood, involves Mexico's unwillingness to concede oil rights to landowners who acquired their property prior to the promulgation of the Constitution of 1917, but who did not exercise their right to explore for petroleum. The United States delegation is insisting upon an equitable valuation of American owned agrarian lands taken over by the Government and this is another point still at issue.

DEBS COMPARES HIMSELF TO FATHER OF HIS COUNTRY

Says All but Socialist Party "Are Controlled by Garys and Rockefellers."

By the Associated Press.

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 5.—"Meaner things were said about George Washington in 1776 than about Gene Debs in 1923," declared Eugene V. Debs yesterday in an Independence day address here in which he compared himself to the father of the American Revolution and to leaders in the anti-salvery movement.

Debs commented upon his imprisonment and upon his Canton speech which caused it. He declared that "at the present time the country's affairs are in a state of bankruptcy," asserting that political parties other than the Socialist are "controlled by the Garys and Rockefellers.

"I wasn't for the war, but I was in it as a prisoner of war, and I think I ought to get a bonus," he remarked facetiously.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Smashing the Laundry Graft.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Laundry Trust can be smashed. Its overcharges are a series of petty grafts, which have angered many thousands whom the trust is constantly victimizing. Their latest trick is to insufficiently starch stiff collars, so as to make them wrinkle when putting them on and become crushed and soiled before the day is half gone. This requires them to be sent to the laundry often, where 5 cents a collar is charged.

A counter organization of the victims can be formed by which, under the direction of a committee, some one of the large laundries can be selected for an attack by giving the name of the laundry and its list of overcharges on leading items and making it very public, by printing it as a leaflet and freely distributing it throughout the city—the leaflet also containing the names and addresses of such smaller laundries as agree to make specified reasonable charges.

By centering the attack upon one laundry, many customers will shun it and give their patronage to the smaller laundries, or to the rival laundries. In this way, the named grafting laundry will at once suffer a large loss of customers, and a persistent distribution of the leaflets will destroy its business if it does not cease its grafting. One such lesson will quickly bring the other grafting laundries to reasonable charges, for each of them would fear it would be chosen for the next attack if such became necessary.

Such a mode of attack is entirely legal, and the committee could welcome any effort the Laundry Trust could make in court, for not only would the trust be defeated, but the exposures made and the publicity given by such trial would be the finishing blow in the smashing of the company, and also in the breaking down of the Laundry Trust. Let's go.

LAWYER.

One-Half of One Per Cent or Fight.

JUST a few lines of comment on your editorial of June 29, "Dry or Die." I wish to say that I, like a lot of other citizens of America, do not wish to see another war, especially over a thing like this. Just because our friends of the Antisaloon League don't want anything to drink they don't want anybody else to have it, and the worst of it all is that they wouldn't hesitate to dash our country into another war and make more hard times, make more children orphans, leave more of our now well and hearty men crippled and maimed for life.

Let's hope and pray that they may see their wrong before it comes to anything like this. With our President upholding them, I don't think there is much hope for anything else. Where do they get the idea that this country is dry, anyhow? Drink is to be gotten if you have the price, and this condition will continue as long as this privilege is denied mankind.

An Ex-Service Man Objects.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THERE appeared in the Post-Dispatch on June 28 a letter by J. W. Carson, a member of the American Legion, a group in no wise representative of the people as a whole, who makes a mighty hullaballoo over the release of the political prisoners. His letter claims to represent the views of the men who helped save civilization.

Being an ex-service man myself, and one who helped to save civilization, (if it was saved), I claim that he does not represent my views, nor the views of thousands of other ex-service men, who surely could not be accused of being pro-German, pacifists or seditious during the war.

I, and perhaps many others, may be sentimentalists, but nevertheless believe these political prisoners are being undeservedly punished by being deprived of their freedom and citizenship. And, like many others, I strenuously object to having the bombastic jingoes say they represent the views of the ex-service men.

Police Discrimination.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ALLOW me to give my opinion of the partiality shown by a St. Louis policeman: Sunday evening, before dark, my husband and I were in Tower Grove Park; had our machine parked and were watching the people go by, when a relative happened by in his car and stopped for a few minutes right on the side of us. I admit this is against the law. Along came a motor cycle cop and arrested him, and refused to listen to any plea we made. This happened some distance from King's highway, and just as the cop was about to go, along came a car with no lights, nor did he have lights all the way in from King's highway.

The cop called to him to stop, which he did, and after a little explanation the cop let him go. That was just as much an offense as ours was. Why wasn't he arrested? How was it, the cop would listen to no explanation from us?

After we left the park we saw this same car again, with no lights. If this isn't partiality I would like to know what it is. My suggestion would be to take some of those young smart ones off the force and put some men on that really are worthy of the positions.

MRS. W.

THE MARCH TO DISASTER.

The French Government is greatly alarmed at the rumored separate agreement between Great Britain and Germany. It perceives dire possibilities in such an agreement, among them being British domination of Europe and a British hegemony which will weigh more heavily upon the continent than any alignment in the tragic past. The French Government sees, too, the frustration of its own designs.

The separate Anglo-German agreement is still a rumor, though the probability—indeed, the inevitability—of its becoming a fact, now recognized by France, has long been patent to the rest of the world. When France embarked on her suicidal Ruhr adventure, over the protest of Great Britain and in defiance of world opinion and historic admonition, she stretched still further the ties already strained between herself and Great Britain. It is almost six months since that fateful decision. In that interval Great Britain has patiently remonstrated with her ally, endeavored in a number of ways to persuade France to withdraw from this enterprise, sought to re-establish negotiations as to reparations on a basis that would maintain the Entente's solidarity in dealing with Germany. What efforts have been made under the cover of diplomacy are, of course, unknown. But all efforts, open and secret, have failed utterly.

The occupancy of the Ruhr has expanded into an invasion of Germany on a scale that warrants the worst interpretations of France's designs. So, England, her patience exhausted, demands that France state in writing just what she plans to accomplish in the Ruhr, and in the meantime, by appropriation for air defense, England has served notice on France that she purposes to be prepared for any exigency.

There can be no honest or intelligent criticism of England's deportment or determination to protect herself. France has compelled that policy. Further, if England enters into a separate agreement with Germany as regards reparations payment that agreement will, in effect, be an Anglo-German alliance. It will mean the recasting of Europe, the creation of a new balance of power in which France will be a debt-ridden minority stockholder in the new European corporation.

Such reorganization will not likely be accomplished by conference and ink-and-paper documents. This is the work of war. European partnerships have been blotted out and reformed in blood. The war which the sanest and ablest of observers have been predicting for four years, may not flare out today or tomorrow, but the date of its declaration has been brought perceptibly nearer by the reported decision of England to rearrange a defense against the latest megalomaniac of Europe.

That megalomaniac is France.

When France decreed the Ruhr invasion she cast the die for war. The Post-Dispatch, in its first comment on that decision, declared that "the consequences to Europe are unthinkable." The article was headed "Marching to Disaster." France has continued to march straight to disaster along the beaten paths of imperialism and insatiable greed. She has alienated the sympathy of the world. If she drives her former powerful ally into alliance with the enemy she will have encompassed her own undoing. It may be that she will have signed civilization's death warrant, for nobody imagines that Europe can survive another general war.

In vetoing the bridge approach bill Mayor Kiel has kept faith with the public, but he will not know how many kinds of a villain he is until Brother Gerhart turns loose his sweet and Christian batteries.

OUR STATESMANLY GOVERNOR.

"The plain, even the ugly, truth," said Gov. Hyde in oratorical exaltation before the National Evangelical Sunday School Convention, "is that the world needs not a league, not a court, not any additional form of international organization, but a good, old-fashioned religious change of heart."

If we are to rely for the prevention of the next war on a mere change of heart, why have an army or navy? Our statesmanly Governor chooses wisely the time and place for his dramatic performance. What, for instance, would happen should he deliver such a speech before the national Republican convention? An I. W. W. making such a declaration five years ago might still be seeking clemency of the President.

It should be said for the Governor, however, that he did not intend to espouse the abolition of the War and Navy Departments nor to give voice to doctrines that might have cost him his liberty in time of war. Allowance must be made for the fact that he is a partisan Republican office holder and that he was speaking before a Sunday school convention. Such being the case, the militarists of the Republican party may calm their nerves in the spell of that classic refrain of Rube Goldberg: "But it doesn't mean anything."

WHERE REAL DANGER LIES.

In the general discussion of the cases of the political prisoners, the statement is frequently made that "free speech is all right in time of peace, but it cannot be tolerated when the life of the nation is in danger." A more deadly and insidious fallacy has never been uttered, and those who utter it must have no acquaintance with the principle on which the guarantee of free speech is based, nor with the conditions which led to its adoption. The principle was admirably stated by Senator Reed in a speech before the City Club last November. Discussing the suppression of free speech as a war-time emergency measure, he said:

> But the fact is that these provisions were designed to protect those rights in just such emergencies. Under the most despotic tyranny that ever ruled the world, the veriest slave that clanked a chain was free to say things that pleased the tyrant. The right of free speech is the right to say in a crisis that the Government is wrong. It is the right to say the unpopular thing, the thing with which the majority does not agree. And if it is not such a right, then it is not free speech at all.

The truth is, of course, borne out by experience, that free speech never endangers the life of a nation. On the contrary, a strong and active opposition is the very best sign of sound political health, and in great emergencies it is particularly valuable. During the war Lloyd George attacked the Asquith Government savagely, saying things for the like of which men were imprisoned in the United States. His attacks resulted eventually in the overthrow of that ministry and the establishment of a government which won the war. The British people know the value of criticism. Free speech is not a danger; it is the cure for all sorts of dangers. Until we learn that, our democracy will never be safe.

When the farmer holds the wheat to lift the price the consumer will be holding the bag.

BOLIVIA'S DESPOT.

President Saavedra of Bolivia resented the charge recently made that he was a despot, and when several Bolivian publishers declared the charge true Saavedra promptly closed their plants, sent the publishers out of the country and established a stringent censorship that is guaranteed to prevent further unfriendly criticism.

Had proof been wanting that Saavedra is a despot he has himself furnished it in abundance. And from reports his position is well fortified. He has practically disbanded the army and substituted for it a sort of Praetorian Guard sufficiently strong to crush any revolt. Officialdom generally is said to be loyal or subservient. He has no opposition except the people, 80 per cent of whom are accounted against him.

Public sentiment in Latin-America is not the force it is elsewhere. Yet sufficient hammering can weld it into a force. It may be observed, too, that, notwithstanding Lenine, Trotzky and Mussolini, despoting is a hazardous sport these days. A week ago, for example, Stamboulisky had Bulgaria under this thumb, and, according to disclosures, was finding the premiership a lucrative job. Stamboulisky is now one with Romanoff and Hapsburg.

There should be a lesson for the Bolivian President in the fate of the Bulgarian Rremier. But despots can't read. Like Henry Ford, they think "history is bunk." Because of that illusion history has to keep bowling them over. It is a long, tiresome struggle and history at times seems to weary of it; but, driven to the breaking point, history strikes and strikes hard. The finish of Saavedra is one of the predestined certainties.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT, YE VERSIFIERS.

DO YOU know, dear folk,
That, by some strange token,
Verse is composed of "male" and "female" rhyme?
For instance, take ear and beer
(Not fear or tear or near-beer),
They are called "male" rhymes;
For "strong" or accented rhymes are of the male gender;
The following rhymes belong to the female gender;
Invincible and comprehensible,
Insensible and indispensable;
These are called "weak" or unstressed rhymes;
And, please take note, "strong" and "weak" don't rhyme.

But "weak" rhymes, delicately handled, suggest
Tears, pathos, tenderness and conquest,
As you will often find
In Poe's beautiful rhymes;
For example, permit me to quote
(The lines I would not claim I wrote):
"One more unfortunate,
Weary of breath,
Rashly importunate,
Gone to her death."
Beautiful and pathetic, sweet and meek,
Thoughtful and sad, but tragically "weak."

Then, again, words have no rhyme
(Now, what do you know about that!);
For instance: Silver, forest, April and crimson;
But in lieu of better rhymes try timber, best,
Naples and ribbon,
While bat will rhyme with that.

And, please bear in mind,
Ye versifiers sublime,
Versification is not only an art, but a science
Used to express thought (beautiful or nil) in defiance
Of all that is said, pro or con,
About verse meaningless, prosaic or long;
Then, too, the distinctive characteristic of verse
(Be it good, bad, indifferent or worse)
Is the regular recurrence of mixed "meter" or rhyme
(But, have a heart, don't criticise mine!).

Shelby is an oil town and can likely regain what it lost, but it is hard to understand how the fistic experts can very soon recover from their failure to prepare us for what happened. It seems that Dempsey could have knocked Gibbons out of the ring at almost any time had he been able to hit him, which we recall to have been the difficulty with John L. Sullivan when he lost the title to Corbett. We were hardly warned that this perhaps would be the case, which makes one wonder what expertness amounts to in a matter as to which the rest of us have no opinion. We are afraid our experts are overcautious. They lack the boldness of George Bernard Shaw, who was able to show precisely why Dempsey could not whip Carpentier. Dempsey did whip him, but the doughty George Bernard was left in no such plight as our experts at Shelby.

And a time for thorns on the brow.
Even as life is both ecstasy and agony,

But life is to be lived neither as leaves

BEANS.

THIS lowly drug has held its sway
Through centuries of war and peace;
And seems as well intrenched today
As once it was in ancient Greece.

When war clouds cast their awful gloom,
Our Uncle Sam digs in his jeans;
To save us from impending doom
He heavily invests in beans.

Urged by this drug, the soldier dares,
The heights where lurid lightnings flame;
He dreams of beans, as forth he fares,
And wins his meed of deathless fame.

The ancient Hebrew in his tent,
(Now quenched in dateless Long Ago)
Partook of beans before he went
To battle with a savage foe.

Our Civil War, with all its woe,
Could well have ceased ere many died,
But for the fact, as now we know,
Both sides with beans were well supplied.

Our Spanish War, on land and sea,
From Cuba to the Philippines,
(Though now 'tis but a memory)
Was pepper stew, opposed to beans.

Though Kaiser Bill could see afar,
And make or unmake Kings and Queens,
He lost his chance to win the war
Because he failed to corner beans.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publications, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

RADIO ORATORY.

From the New York Evening Post.

SIZE as the enemy of quality is now asserting itself in the field of public speaking. Mr. Harding's daily auditors, in the original sense of hearers, are now to be counted by the million. But the effect of such a vast and attentive public, as reported from the President's train, suggests the effect of movie audiences, which run into the millions, or literature audiences, which run into the several hundred thousands—standardization, mechanism, rote. Mr. Harding is held to the text of his prepared speeches because he must speak into his amplifier calmly and clearly. He cannot surrender himself to a bit of extempore emotion because emotion does not carry well over the air vibrations. He cannot walk down to the footlights and into intimacy with the people in the hall because there are millions of people outside the hall who will lose him if he gets away from the receiving instruments. In a very real sense it is now the primary duty of a public orator to go up in the air. To be sure, a President has always spoken to the country first and his physical audience second. The newspapers have been, and will continue importantly to be, his broadcasters. But every President wants the country to catch more than his mere words. He wants it to catch by reflection the enthusiasm of his immediate listeners. Perhaps as much as his telegraphed text it is useful to have the reporters wire that the people in the hall were swept off their feet. Now, apparently, we are to have much less of that form of democratic intoxication. The orator who sets out to make his immediate audience go wild takes a chance on having his much bigger and invisible audience go wild when the wave lengths begin to sputter.

BRITAIN AND GERMANY.

JOHN MAYNARD KEYNES in the New Republic.

THE new German note affords as fair a basis for the settlement of the economic problem of reparations as it is within the power of any German Government to give. This is universally admitted by Great Britain herself. For the first time a stage has been reached at which the choice between alternative policies is clear. She cannot dissociate herself from the affairs of the Continent and the working out of the Treaty of Versailles as America has done. She must either seek a conference with Germany and throw her influence on the side of a business settlement or take her stand with France.

COMPETITIVE SUBMARINES.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin.

AMERICA'S naval program, as announced in Washington for presentation to Congress in December, is modest in comparison with the ambitious plans which were the order before the Washington conference. Competition in battleships is ended. But there is included in the program the suggestive item of three "cruiser submarines." It is warning that competition in submarines is beginning. And although submarines, even of the cruiser type, do not cost as much as battleships, unrestricted competition of Governments for the largest and most powerful submarine fleet will soon become as great a folly as the habit of building battleships for the junk heap had become. Submarines were not included in the agreement made at Washington for the limitation of armaments. Now Great Britain has [illegible] ered her "mystery," the super-submarine, which can outrun and outfight any craft that can [illegible]. Naturally, the United States meets the challenge. So it will continue, each Government "raising" the other, untill in an hour of common sense they get together, look at each in the face and say "What's the use?" and supplement the Washington agreement with another of like purpose.

STATUE OF LINCOLN, CAST IN 1905, TO BE ERECTED SOON

Chicago, Where It Has Been Stored for 18 Years, Never Has Seen St. Gaudens Work.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Illinois will soon pay honor to Abraham Lincoln through erection of a statue of the emancipator, cast almost 20 years ago by Augustus St. Gaudens, who died soon after the work was completed.

Chicagoans never have seen the statue, although it has been in this city almost continuously since it was cast.

This statue, completed in 1905, has been stored in a shelter house in Jackson Park here, awaiting decision by the South Park Commissioners as to its location. They have about come to the conclusion to place it in Grant Park, on the lake front.

The casting of the statue was made possible through a bequest of the late John Crerar, who made many such bequests. He gave $100,000 for the casting and upkeep of the statue.

The statue has been exhibited once in New York and again in San Francisco, but each time has been returned to Chicago boxed and never has been exhibited here. It shows Lincoln seated, and is said to be one of the sculptor's best works.

L. R. WOODS' FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Rev. MacIvor Coming From Pittsburg to Conduct Services for Business Man.

The funeral of Leonard Rice Woods, 82 years old, who had been in business here for about half a century, and who died of cerebral hemorrhage at 11 p. m. Tuesday at his home, 543 Rosedale avenue, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

The Rev. John W. MacIvor, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, of which Woods was an elder and active worker since 1905, is returning from Pittsburg, where he has been on vacation, to conduct the service, which will be at the residence. The body will be cremated and the ashes later interred in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Woods had been active up to last Monday, when he was unable to go to his office. For the last eight years he has been connected with the M. W. Warren Coke Co., of which his son, Parker H. Woods of 6248 Washington boulevard, is vice president.

As a youth Woods became cashier of the Vulcan Steel Co., Carondelet, which is said to have operated the first rolling mill west of the Mississippi River. Later he was cashier of Deere & Co. and its successors, Mansur & Tebbetts Implement Co., and the local office of the John Deere Plow Co. In 1875 he married Miss Nell M. Mason, a teacher in the Carondelet School. She died about two years ago. Woods was superintendent of the Carondelet Presbyterian Church Sunday school for 28 years, till 1905. Two daughters, Miss Helen Elizabeth Woods, who lived with him, and Mrs. Charles R. Lewis of Webster Groves, and the son survive.

U. S. INDEPENDENCE DAY OBSERVED IN FRANCE

Monument to Americans Who Fought in French Foreign Legion Dedicated.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
(Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

PARIS, July 5.—The Rue de la Paix was as beflagged as Fifth avenue today and official meetings in Paris commemorated Independence day with solemnity. Holiday Americans, however, were not at all solemn and called the day the Fourth of July and made their festivities correspondingly exuberant.

The amount of official and public attention the day receives in France makes America a favored nation so far as its anniversary is concerned. By comparison other nations are ignored.

This year, for instance, the great wireless broadcasting station was given over for the day to American music and all France was treated to a program opening with a Sousa march and proceeding through delicate compositions of McDowell and Loeffler to a climax with the "Star-Spangled Banner." On all public buildings throughout France the Stars and Stripes floated alongside the Tricolor.

Most Imposing Ceremony.

The most imposing ceremony of the day was the dedication of a monument in the Place des Etats-Unis in honor of the Americans who volunteered in the French Foreign Legion immediately after the beginning of the World War in August, 1914, and died fighting in French uniform.

Premier Poincare, the Ministers of War and Marine, the Military Governor of Paris, the Grand Chancellor of the Legion of Honor, Georges Clemenceau, Marshals Foch, Joffre and Petain, Gen. Mangin and numerous civil dignitaries attended.

The monument was built entirely by popular subscription limited to French citizens and is a likeness of Alan Seeger, the soldier-poet, killed in the war.

Later the Sons of the American Revolution visited the tomb of Lafayette and in the evening the Chamber of Commerce entertained French dignitaries with a great banquet.

Suggests America Should Guarantee Security of France.
By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 5.—The suggestion that America should guarantee the security of France from future German invasion by the promulgation of a sort of second Monroe Doctrine was made last night by Blythe W. Branch, president of the American Chamber of Commerce in Paris, speaking as chairman of that organization's annual Independence day banquet.

Branch drew an analogy between what he described as the antipodal conception of civilization between France and Germany and those between the United States and Europe 100 years ago, when President Monroe made his famous declaration, which, although never formally recognized by the signature of any national or political body, has been respected by Europe and has been one of America's cardinal principles in her foreign relationships.

Favors Declaration to Germany.

As long as Germany holds to the doctrine of "might makes right" and the rest of the world professes the faith of "right makes might," declared Branch, there will always be potential danger from the east side of the Rhine. The two viewpoints are diametrically opposed, he declared, and there appears no immediate prospect of Germany's coming over to the other view. Therefore, he said, he should like to hear America make a declaration to Germany somewhat as follows:

"Work and pay your debts."

"The entire world will help you bear your cross, for you shall have a cross to bear before retaking your place in the sun, of which nobody has ever wished to deprive you. Forget your ideas of hegemony; forget above all your 'Duetschland Uber Alles.' Humanity has no use for your ridiculous pretensions which imperil the inalienable rights of man, his right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"Above all, stay on your side of the Rhine, because as much as you may eb able to demonstrate proofs of your good faith and penitence, you are and you will continue to be subjects of caution, and we shall maintain our line of defense against you, not from choice, but from necessity."

Texas Mob Lynches Negro.
By the Associated Press.

SCHULENBERG, Tex., July 4.—About 200 citizens of Fayette, Colorado and Lavaca Counties, in South Texas, late Tuesday, took Jesse Bullock, 23, negro, from Marshal O. B. Swinkey, and lynched him. Bullock was strung up on a tree on Main street, near the city hall. The negro, bystanders said, confessed to having attacked a 12-year-old white girl at her parent's home near here. He admitted guilt as the noose was adjusted about his neck.

Loyal Legion Commander Dies.
By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Mason Albert Stone, vice-president of the Pacific Insurance Company of New York, died here Tuesday night after an operation for appendicitis. Stone, born in Orange, Mass., 77 years ago, was president of the Greenwich Insurance Company when it was consolidated with the Pacific Insurance Co. He was commander of the military order of the Loyal Legion.

'ILLINOIS' VINDICATES RIVERMEN'S BELIEF

Veterans Say Towboat Showed Superiority of Sternwheelers by Defeating St. Louis.

Arrival of the Federal barge line towboat Illinois at St. Louis eight hours ahead of the towboat St. Louis, with which it raced from Cairo, is taken by rivermen to establish the superiority of the stern wheel propelled type of towboat over the "tunnel" type which is propelled by twin screws.

The Illinois, a stern wheeler, left Cairo at 1:20 p. m. Saturday, arriving here at 7 p. m. Tuesday. The St. Louis, a "tunnel" type boat, left Cairo at 5:20 p. m. Saturday and arrived here at 3 a. m. yesterday.

The race, the first contest between Federal barge line towboats in the "upper" river, has attracted attention of river men as has no event in recent years. In addition to being a test of the ability of the crews, it was a test between types of boats.

E. N. Smith, 2138 Allen avenue, pilot on the Illinois, said that the Illinois made considerably better actual running time than did the St. Louis.

Says Stern Wheeler is Better.

"The contest also proves that the stern wheel type of boat, such as the Illinois is, greatly excels the 'tunnel' type on river service," Smith said.

Old-time river men scoffed at the "tunnel" type for river service when towboats of the St. Louis type were put on the river and they predicted that the stern wheel type would prove superior.

"The Illinois left Cairo at 1:20 p. m. Saturday, with four barges loaded with general merchandise and one empty barge," said Smith. "That was practically the same load as was carried by the St. Louis which left Cairo about 5:20 p. m. Saturday. Both boats had been given an equal number of loaded and empty barges so that the contest would be as fair a test of the merits of the boats as possible.

"The Illinois lost three hours Saturday afternoon in getting straightened out in the river immediately after leaving Cairo. Then the Illinois was tied up from 7 o'clock until midnight Saturday at Greenfield Light, about four miles out of Cairo, to obtain rigging from the Nokomis and to exchange a barge.

Passed "St. Louis" Saturday Night.

"While we were tied up at Greenfield Light the St. Louis passed us. That was about 11 o'clock Saturday night. Although the St. Louis was an hour ahead of the Illinois when we started out at midnight we passed her during the night and were in the lead continuously during the remainder of the trip.

"We lost another hour just above Chester on account of a broken rudder."

The towboat St. Louis Saturday won a 13-day race from New Orleans to Cairo against the towboat Cairo, the St. Louis arriving at Cairo 12 hours ahead of its rival.

Famous River Race 53 Years Ago.

The contest of the two towboats recalls the steamboat race, famous in song and story, which was concluded at St. Louis July 4, 1870, 53 years ago yesterday.

That contest was between the "Robert E. Lee" and the "Natchez," the two largest and finest passenger boats on the river. That race, as was the barge race just concluded, began without prearranged plans. The two steamers were tied up at New Orleans. The "Lee" suddenly steamed from the pier a few moments before the "Natchez'" starting time, and the race was on.

The "Lee" gained a slight advantage at the start, which she gradually increased. The time of the "Lee" from New Orleans to St. Louis, 3 days, 18 hours and 14 minutes, has never been equaled on the river. The towboat St. Louis completed its trip from New Orleans to St. Louis in 17 days.

BOYS AND GIRLS FROM OHIO ORPHANAGE GIVE K S D PROGRAM

Band and Chorus Music Broadcast From Roof of Post-Dispatch Until Rain Interrupts.

K S D's audience listened to a very enjoyable program last night given by a youthful girls' chorus and boys' band from the Junior Order of United American Mechanics' Orphan Home of Tiffin, O.

The band, directed by C. Henry Rodegertz, played on the roof of the Post-Dispatch building (the only available place for so large an assembly of musicians) until interrupted by rain, and the program was concluded by an interesting group of songs by the girls' chorus, given in the studio, under the direction of Miss Gertrude Wagner.

RIVER BEING SEARCHED FOR PICNICKER'S BODY

St. Louisan Drowns in Meramec; Woman Rescued After Going Down Several Times.

Dynamite is being used today in an effort to recover the body of James Conlin, 43 years old, a chef, of 1327 South Thirteenth street, who was drowned while swimming in the Meramec River half a mile above Fenton at 1:15 p. m. yesterday, shortly after he had eaten lunch.

This was the only Fourth of July drowning reported, although thousands of persons flocked to the Meramec River and other swimming resorts. Red Cross and other authorities have given repeated warnings against entering the water for at least an hour after eating, or while tired.

Conlin, who lives with William McElderry, had gone on a picnic with a number of persons, among whom was a daughter of McElderry. Miss McElderry said today that she had a luncheon similar to Conlin's and that they started swimming down stream immediately afterwards. They went down about half a mile, she said, going through a stretch of unusually rapid water.

Near the end of this stretch she became exhausted, she related, and went under. Coming to the surface, she saw that Conlin was in difficulty and had his head thrown back as though he had a cramp. James Marmon of 3915 Blair avenue, a member of their party, swam out and pulled Miss McElderry to safety. She was taken home after being revived.

The water where Conlin went under is about 15 feet deep, and considerable driftwood and rubbish, brought down by floods, is said to be caught on rocks beneath the surface there. Red Cross lifesavers, who were sent for, spent several hours diving in an effort to recover the body, but were hampered by the swift current. Deputy Sheriff James Slevin of Fenton used dynamite today trying to bring the body up. Conlin's 6-year-old son was in the party of picnickers.

A woman, whose name was not learned, was rescued from the river near the bridge at Fenton, after she had gone under several times in a swift stretch. Red Cross workers and river enthusiasts point out that safe places to swim in the Meramec are numerous, and call attention to the frequently publishing swimming "Don'ts."

INFANTRY BATTALION BELIEVED TO HAVE SET RIFLE FIRE RECORD

Every Man in Three Companies Qualifies as Marksman or Better.

By the Associated Press.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., July 5.—A world's record in rifle fire was made by the first battalion of the Twenty-fifth Infantry stationed at Camp Harris J. Jones in the course of target work completed recently, according to Maj. Harry J. Castles, commander of the post. Every man in the three rifle companies of the battalion, numbering about 320, qualified as marksman or better, which, so far as records available at the post show, has never been equalled in the United States Army.

Corporal Jesse J. Williams of B. Company made the highest record of the battalion which is also the highest in the regiment, making a score of 321 out of a possible 350. B Company made the highest average, running up a mark of over 291, its ranks numbering 49 expert riflemen, the highest grade attainable, and 2f sharpshooters. The average for the entire battalion, according to Maj. Castles, will run between 285 and 290, which is well above the sharpshooter mark of 275.

PESKY BED-BUGS

(Pesky DevilsQuietus) P. D. Q. is the new chemical that puts the everlasting to the Pesky bedbugs, roaches, fleas, ants and cootties—impossible for the pesky devils to exist where P. D. Q. is used.

Recommendations of Hotels, Hospitals, Railroad Companies and other public institutions are a guarantee to the public that the safest, quickest and most economical way of ridding the pesky insects is by the use of P. D. Q., as this chemical kills the eggs as well as the live ones, and will not injure the clothing.

A 25c package makes a full quart, enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, fleas or cooties—and also contains a patent spout to get the egg-nests in the hard-to-get-at places and saves labor. P. D. Q. can also be purchased in sealed bottles, double strength, liquid form. Sold by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Co.

This Way to Curl Hair Is Fine for Outdoor Girl

The slimerine method of curling the hair is the proper thing (for either bobbed or long hair) before going motoring, boating or golfing, or indulging in any outdoor sport or exercise. It not only gives the hair the most beautiful wavy and curly appearance imaginable, but wind or heat will not take the curl out. The curliness is quickly acquired and lasts much longer than where waving tongs are used. Besides, the hair is bright and lustrous, instead of dull and dead looking. When combed out it is as nice and fluffy as if it had just been shampooed. Just get a bottle of liquid slimerine at any drug store, follow the easy directions and you will be simply delighted.

JAPANESE MERCHANTS APPEAL AGAINST A CHINESE BOYCOTT

They Ask Their Government to Force Pekin Authorities to Act as Once.

Special Wireless to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News. (Copyright, 1923.)

TOKIO, July 5.—Facing huge losses through the Chinese boycott, Japanese merchants of Tokio, Osaka and Kobe have appealed to the Government to take drastic action if necessary to end anti-Japanese agitation in China. That the situation is daily growing more serious, is evidenced by the fact that the Japanese Government already has instructed legation heads in Pekin to make strong representations demanding a halting of the boycott.

Reports received here that large supplies of Japanese products have been destroyed by Chinese is resulting in a rapidly growing public hostility toward China.

Unless the Pekin Government acts soon, indications are that Japan will take steps to protect the rights of her own nationals with armed force.

HERO MEDAL WINNER ENDS LIFE

Belleville Miner Feared He Would Become a Burden.

Theodore Boettcher, 54 years old, of Belleville, who 18 years ago received Carnegie hero awards for bravery in attempting to save the life of a fellow-miner, took his own life Tuesday by inhaling gas. Near the body, which was found by his wife on her return from shopping, was a note explaining that he feared a nervous breakdown and did not wish to become a "burden to his family." A coroner's verdict of suicide was returned.

The act for which Boettcher received the Carnegie awards occurred in the Muren mine at Belleville in 1905. Boettcher and Daniel Hopp had lighted a fuse and started to run, when a large slab of slate fell, pining Hopp to the ground. Boettcher rushed back and extinguished the fuse in time to prevent the discharge, but Hopp died two days later from his injuries. Besides awarding a hero medal to Boettcher, the Carnegie Association lifted a $1000 mortgage on his home and gave him $700. His widow, two sons and two daughters survive.

AIR PAGEANT ATTRACTS 5000 DESPITE RAIN

'Ships' Perform Stunts That Please St. Louis Fans; Flyers Bomb Wooden "Battleship."

Despite weather more suited to ducks than airplanes, about 5000 spectators apparently enjoyed themselves at St. Louis Field, Bridgeton, yesterday afternoon, watching the aerial pageant presented, under auspices of the 110th Air Service Unit, Missouri National Guard.

The moment of most difficult breathing came when an automobile sped down a wet track at 75 miles an hour, while overhead an airplane let down a ladder so that a man could climb from car to plane. After this the crowd seemed only slightly agitated when a girl stood on the wing of a ship as it looped the loop. Several critical onlookers said she was tied on, with little chance of the ropes breaking.

A survey of the crowd indicated that aviation is developing a distinct public in St. Louis. There were men and women present who talked familiarly of "the Immelman turn," the "falling leaf," "dead stick landing" and "nose dives." After the various events had been run off several pilots offered to carry passengers for $5 each. They did a brisk business.

Eight ships were on the field. The greatest number in the air at one time was four. This quartet, piloted by Maj. William Robertson, his brother Frank, Perry Hutton and Ray Wassall, flew in military formation and bombarded a wooden "battleship."

There was no lack of realism. Ships darted and flattened through the rain. Performers dropped from speeding planes, using parachutes. The automobile transfer stunt was tried 10 times before Major Robertson could bring his plane near enough to the car for Jimmy Donahue, a professional stunter, to grasp the ladder and climb. Miss Elvira Fizer, 18 years old, another professional, walked on the wings of a plane. She later made the loop on top of Captain Wassal's ship.

Cyle Horchem and his wife, Bertha, professionals from Wichita, Kan., each drove a plane and did stunts.

Members of the Police Board, the St. Louis Air Board and a delegation of army flyers were present. Police and St. Louis County deputies handled the heavy automobile traffic.

DIES FROM A 20-FOOT FALL

No Trouble to Keep Skin Free From Hairs

(The Modern Beauty)

There is no need for any woman to countenance superfluous hairs, because with a paste made by mixing some powdered delatone with water it is easy to get rid of them. The paste is applied for 2 to 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This treatment will rid the skin of hair without leaving a blemish, but care should be taken to see that you get real delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

SHELBY, Mont., July 5.—Sick from a cruel body mauling, tired out, gasping for air through blood flecked lips, clinging to the champion's left arm with a desperate two-handed clutch that defied Referee Dougherty's best efforts to break, but true to his bulldog purpose, Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul lasted the fifteen scheduled rounds of his match with Champion Jack Dempsey here, yesterday afternoon.

Referee Dougherty was in the act of prying Gibbons loose from his thousandth (or more) grip on Dempsey's wing when the gong ending the bout rang. He immediately raised Dempsey's hand in token of victory. There was a perfunctory cheer for Dempsey; then a trampling rush of thousands to the ringside to greet the real hero—Gibbons, in the minds of the fans.

Red men, cowboys, tourists, Canadians and women—especially the women—there was no doubt that the result was a moral victory for the challenger or Gibbons the under dog, the outclassed; the man who hadn't a chance, and the man who was fighting without hope of receiving additional cash, had furnished the crowning surprise of the most surprising match of the century.

How Gibbons Profits.

Gibbons is the man of the hour. Outweighed 13 or more pounds, handicapped in youth, punch, size and power, entering the ring with a funeral dirge being sung over his chances, facing predictions of a quick knockout and no financial reward, he surprised the world by remaining the limit. Undoubtedly he, even in defeat has placed himself a notch higher in the pugilistic scale, with the certainty that the financial reward denied him in the Shelby event, will come with a return match against the champion.

The fight itself was a fearsome thing to watch, especially to one trained to other standards of boxing than straight Marquis of Queensbury rules. If such a fight had been held in St. Louis by parties unknown to fame, the principals both undoubtedly would have been booed out of the ring and the bout stopped. But under the mantle of straight Queensbury conditions holding and hitting and other forms of fighting almost akin to mayhem are tolerated, even encouraged.

Gibbons made it plain from the beginning that he was there with the sole thought of remaining the 15 rounds. To this end he employed masterful knowledge of defense, and clung like ivy to the champion throughout the match except at such times as he was running away or ducking and dodging his dynamic foe. In the middle stages of the fight, when Dempsey, exasperated and puzzled by his inability to reach his foe let up in his aggressive efforts, Gibbons took the offensive for a few moments. He had a shade in the fifth and eleventh rounds and a draw in the ninth. For the rest it was a case of Dempsey tearing in, pounding his foe in the clinches and trying to wear him down and at the end there was not the slightest doubt that the champion had gained the verdict. Even the crowd, strongly biased in favor of Gibbons, had not a boo for the $5000 hand-picked referee, brought on by the titleholder when he made his decision.

Dempsey's Timing and Poor Judgment Of Distance Cause the Crowd to Jeer

Probably the most surprised and grieved man in the arena was Dempsey himself. For the first time since he has been before the public he allowed himself to smile before the bout. Usually he is scowling and sullen, but yesterday, for a moment or two, when he took his beady eyes off the light-skinned rival in the opposite corner, to listen to a facetious remark, he actually grinned—this, too, in the face of the fact that the champion had received but a perfunctory greeting as he took his corner, while Gibbons' appearance was the signal for a prolonged ovation.

But at the close of the struggle the smile had worn off completely. The champion had learned for the first time since he won the championship that there was in the world a man who could stand before him and go the limit without even being knocked down. As a matter of fact Dempsey, aside from the body-mauling he gave Gibbons while in close, did not land with full force with either hand during the fight. His famous heavy artillery might as well have been left in the gymnasium. For, what with his own wretched boxing and Gibbons' great ducking and running away, the title holder missed often enough with his right and left aces to cause the crowd to jeer.

Dempsey's poor showing was in no way due to physical condition. He crowded Gibbons hard throughout, turned and twisted him around as though he were a boy, and was in good condition at the end, ready to go another 15 rounds apparently.

But his failure to box against a capable sparring staff in the training bore fruit yesterday in his poor timing and judgment of distance. The crafty Gibbons' clever work had plenty to do with this, but even when the champion had a clear opening he was either late or short.

Whether his showing means that he never again will reach the peak he attained in Jersey City or merely that against a clever shifting opponent he is not the same Dempsey as against slow and heavier targets, will remain for future fights to prove.

The Fight in Detail.

The fight itself could be divided into three phases with the first and third distinctly Dempsey, and the second slightly Gibbons.

The first phase of the battle included the first four rounds. They see the agile Dempsey at his best and the frailer and smaller Gibbons at his worst.

Dempsey after barely touching the tips of his gloves to those of his opponent, at the start—there is no love lost between the two camps—went close in and had Gibbons in a clinch where he began pounding his foe with short punches to the head and body, turning Gibbons around as if he were a mannikin and seeking places to inflict the peculiar style of short-punch punishment of which the champion is master.

Gibbons was clinging desperately and reaching out for gloves, in an effort to find a successful block to Dempsey's infighting. At times after punishment in clinches he broke away from Dempsey and ran, turning now and then to shoot parthian lefts into Dempsey's head and body.

followed up the champion, who was off balance, and landed a right and left twice in succession, all cuffing blows which put Dempsey off balance. At no time in the fight did Gibbons land a blow that the champion seemed in the least to mind.

Gibbons' Effective Trick.

Dempsey tried to come in, but Gibbons was using a trick that stopped Dempsey's damage in close. Seizing Dempsey's left arm with both gloves he turned with it and avoided presenting any vulnerable spot for the title holder's right to land on.

Baffled, Dempsey tried open boxing and, began ducking and shifting in his best style, but Gibbons was not to be fooled. He made Dempsey miss and miss and miss. The exasperated champion let go rights and lefts hard enough to up-end a cathedral. But they encountered the air. Tommy had business elsewhere. At the finish of the round Dempsey was actually backing up against the ropes and covering against the right and left leads being hurled at him. However, he was peeping over his forearms unmindful of the punches launched and waiting for a chance to whale away when the bell rang.

Dempsey came back in the next three rounds although he was not fighting his fight at all. Gibbons was beginning to solve his clinch tactics although Dempsey was doing nine-tenths of the leading while Gibbons rarely attempted to attack. When he did he nearly always managed to peck Dempsey in the body with one of his futile little left-hand slams that had about as much effect on the champion as slapping him with a strip of bacon. Dempsey persevered and shook Tom up occasionally. But that jaw and stomach were hard to hit squarely. Once or twice Dempsey's glove reached Tommy's body hard, and the effect could be seen in Gibbons' boxing.

In the ninth Gibbons again flashed. In this round Dempsey again started shifting, but Gibbons danced, ran away, turned and squirmed out of reach of the thunderbolts launched at him by the champion or ran in close when in danger. Tom landed hard with lefts and rights as the round ended but Dempsey screwed up his face in what passed for a grin, as he went to his corner.

It was no time to grin and there was only a sombre face to greet him as Manager Jack Kearns bobbed up to help during the intermission.

Dempsey Misses Repeatedly.

In the tenth Dempsey fought a colorless round, but Gibbons was not leading and confined almost his entire time to defensive work. Tom awoke again in the eleventh and did some of his best work, although he did not lead often. He hit the champion several times and made that now desperate young man miss, as he wildly tried to force an opening through Gibbons' defense.

That was the end of Gibbons. Somewhere during that gruelling 11 rounds he had been hurt and the effect was just beginning to show. No particular blow Dempsey struck could be designated. But it was plain that Gibbons was going fast.

The third and final phase of the fight saw Gibbons doing nothing but holding on for the last four rounds. In the twelfth round he did not make one lead, and in the last three rounds his attack was just a feeble attempt to force Dempsey into believing that he was still there.

The final round was a pitiful effort by Gibbons. Tom clung on at every occasion with both hands to Dempsey's arms. Dempsey allowed him to take a good hold on it, and raised his right to show the crowd that he was not even trying to use it; but still Gibbons clung, until Referee Dougherty tore him loose with the aid of the champion, only to see him grab again. Dempsey struggled wildly and landed some telling punches, but could not get through Gibbons' cover to a vital place.

Time after time Dougherty, panting and sweating, tore Tom loose. At the close the bell beat Dempsey to it. Gibbons had done what no other fighter in memory has done—stay with Dempsey to the limit without even being knocked down.

Gibbons, Clever at Long Range, Proves Difficult Target for Dempsey to Hit

At long range Gibbons showed great cleverness in making Dempsey miss. He was a moving, shifting target at which Dempsey led in vain. But much of the fighting in the opening round and of the four that followed it was of the same type. They all saw Dempsey pounding away at any exposed part of the Gibbons anatomy, searching out weak places everywhere from the back of the head to points dangerously close to the waist line. In this connection it may be said that Dempsey's blows were actually low on several occasions and landed on the dark blue silk of Gibbons' trunks.

At these times the mob jeered, booed and called upon the referee to disqualify the champion. "Handpicked," they called the referee.

But Dempsey's mistakes were inconsequential and were properly ignored by Dougherty.

One reprehensible thing the referee did was to permit Dempsey to linger longer in the clinches than was necessary before breaking them. But he also ignored the unreasonable holding of the challenger.

But it was hard to blame Dougherty. Breaking Gibbons loose from a clinch at times seemed to require a hydraulic crane rather than a referee.

Crowd Strong for Gibbons.

The crowd was "strong" for Gibbons and found occasion to cheer him now and then, for, when Tom scored, his blows were all in the open, and every one that rang the bell got a great ovation. Many that Dempsey blocked or smothered got the same reception, so eagerly did those present desire to see Gibbons win.

But at the end of the fourth round it appeared only a question of time before Gibbons would weaken and go down. His lips were bleeding slightly and he suffered from a constant body mauling, from which all his head rolling, body twisting, running and dodging could not keep him clear.

Then came the surprising Gibbons rally which flared fitfully during the fifth, ninth and eleventh. It saw Gibbons turn and fairly outpoint Dempsey in the fifth, saw a fine, interesting rally in the ninth and saw him shade the champion in the eleventh.

In the fifth Gibbons for a moment took the lead from Dempsey and lammed him with two lefts. He

Johnston Will Play Hunter In Wimbledon Final

American Tennis Stars Won Matches in Semifinal Round Yesterday.

By the Associated Press.

WIMBLEDON, July 5.—The next champion tennis player of the world on grass courts will be an American. The crown may rest on William M. Johnston of California or Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y. Each of these stars won his way through the semifinal sets yesterday in sweeping style.

Johnston took the measure of B. I. C. Norton of South Africa, with scores of 6—4, 6—2, 6—4. Hunter eliminated Gordon Lowe, the veteran English internationalist, whose game has not kept pace with these speedy times. The score in this match was 6—3, 7—5, 6—4.

When Johnston and Hunter will face each other across the net of the roughened court, that was so smooth and green 10 days ago, has not been announced, but most likely their contest will take place Saturday.

All aspirations of taking the doubles championship trophy to America along wi the silver cup that goes to the last survivor in the singles, died yesterday, when the French team, Lacoste and Borotra, defeated Vincent Richards and Francis T. Hunter in a five-set fight that was tense at times, and at other times a sorry exhibition. The scores were 6—3, 6—4; 2—6, 4—6, 6—4.

The shining star of the day was Suzanne Lenglen, who advanced to the finals in the women's singles by crushing Mrs. Beamish, conqueror of Mrs. Mallory, without the loss of a game; without, in fact, once having the ball driven past her.

Miss Eleanor Goss, American, paired with Mlle. Vlasto of Greece, was eliminated from the woman's lawn tennis doubles in the round before the semi-finals today by the Misses Joan Austin and Evelyn Colyer, of England, 7-5, 8-6.

Gollan, Who Defeated Champion Hoover, Wins From Codman in Diamond Sculls Event.

By the Associated Press.

HENLEY ON THAMES, July 5.—Brasenose College, Oxford, stroked by the American oarsman, W. P. Mellen, of Garden City, N. Y., won its heat in the grand challenge cup contest today. The Oxonians defeated the French eight by a length, in seven minutes, three seconds.

Russell Codman Jr., the Boston oarsman, was eliminated from competition for the diamond sculls today, being defeated by D. H. L. Gollan, victor over Walter Hoover yesterday. The Englishman won by two lengths in 8 minutes 30 seconds.

Gollan, who is deaf and dumb, got the lead on the American with the drop of the flag and held it throughout. The Bostonian tried his utmost, but the Englishman's lead was too great to be overcome. As the shells drew near the finish line Codman was cheered on by the Americans in the throng of spectators, and one of his majesty's bands played the American national anthem. The race was rowed under a scorching sun.

Hilton A. Belyea, the Canadian champion, won his heat for the Diamond Sculls, easily defeating Dr. Rudolph L. Boshard of the Grasshopper Club, Zurich, Switzerland. Belyea, after allowing Boshard a lead of three lengths, came from behind in a wonderfully timed and beautifully executed spurt and rowed the Swiss to a standstill winning easily in 8 minutes and 40 seconds.

Walter M. Hoover of Duluth, holder of the diamond sculls, lost his chance to bring back to America the famous trophy through an accident in the first preliminary heat of the competition on the Thames yesterday. A few seconds after Hoover started down the course he caught his left oar in a log boom marking the waterway. A hundred yards further he caught his blade on the boom again with such force as to split a piece a foot long and an inch and a half wide from his oar.

His opponent, D. H. L. Gollan, of Leanders, who is deaf and dumb, had already been headed by Hoover in the 100 yards covered, but the little piece of polished scull danced past him on the wash from the American's shell and spelled opportunity to capture the Henley trophy which for years he has been silently struggling for, and he took it with a vengeance.

Susanne Lenglen and Elizabeth Ryan advanced in the doubles by defeating Mrs. Geraldine Beamish and Mrs. McNair, 6-1, 6-2.

By their victory, Mlle. Lenglen and Miss Ryan entered the semi-finals.

Randolph Lycett and L. A. Godfree advanced to the semi-finals in the men's doubles by eliminating W. Radcliffe and H. G. Aitken, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Vincent Richards and Mrs. Molla Mallory advanced to the semi-finals in the mixed doubles by defeating W. C. Crawley and Miss Kathleen McKane of England, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Firpo Says He Will Be Next Champion

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 5.—"Meet Luis Angel Firpo, the next heavyweight champion of the world," exclaimed the big South American fighter last night when told the result of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight. "I always thought I could beat Dempsey, but now I'm sure I can knock him out. I never gave Gibbons much consideration."

Jess Willard, who meets Firpo a week from tomorrow, for the privilege of fighting Dempsey for the heavyweight crown, merely grunted when reached at his training quarters in Yonkers, and said:

"Oh, is that so?"

"I Lost to a Better Wrestler," Says Tom Gibbons; "Best Man I Ever Fought," Champion Asserts

"Perhaps I'll Get a Few Fights Out of the Challenges That Will Be Hurled at Me, Since Gibbons Stayed With Me," Dempsey Suggests — Challenger Wants a Return Match.

From a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1923.)

SHELBY, Mont., July 5.—"My shot at the heavyweight championship went wide and I can only say that I feel satisfied that I showed my friends that I could fight them all, regardless of size," said Challenger Tommy Gibbons today in an exclusive interview with a correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

"How about the fight, itself?" Tom continued. "Well, I must say that I lost to a better wrestler, not a fighter.

"The rules under which the bout was staged permitted Dempsey to get away with everything short of actual murder, his superior size and strength telling heavily in the clinches. Back in St. Paul or New York, I think I would have beaten Dempsey. The code prevailing there does not tolerate wrestling in the ring and I would have been free to land clean punches to the body and jaw. At that, I did not miss many. I may be wrong, but I think the majority of clean punches fell to my credit.

"But with Dempsey rushing me constantly, in the hope of smothering me in a clinch, I hardly had a chance to show at my best. I was surprised at the lightness of his punches, having been led to believe that he was a real man-killer.

"Jack Dempsey didn't hurt me at any time. He merely tired me out, just as a 15-round tussel with a grizzly bear would. That is the reason he had so much the better of me in the final round. It was physical weariness from mauling with a man much my physical superior.

"I think I hurt him several times, though. In the tenth round he seemed to have all the pep taken out of him by a left hook and I carried the fight right to him till he rallied desperately in the fifteenth. It may sound like propaganda, but I want to say that I think I qualified for another match with Dempsey under more favorable conditions. I think other sections of the country where I was not simply thought of seriously will now decognize my claims for consideration. Had Referee Dougherty broken us as many times in the first 10 rounds as he did in the last five, I fully believe that nothing could have kept me out of the championship.

"I am making no attack on the official in question. He is Dempsey's personal friend, true enough, and he was named by the champion as referee; yet I think he followed his honest impulses as guided by the rules under which we fought.

"Dempsey's body attack was cruel enough, but the only time I was bothered was when he landed several punches that were on the border line of being foul. I was not fouled, however; at least, it didn't feel that way to me, and naturally I made no claim. I was in there to beat Dempsey out of the championship, and not have him lose it on a foul.

"I failed in my intention, but I am a happy man. I know I am the recognized contender for the title now and that nothing can keep me out of a return match, unless it might be Dempsey's hesitancy to give me another shot. Another thing, I didn't win a nickel at the box office, but that doesn't make the slightest difference to me. I won lots of friends."

"Still Champion," Says Jack.

The correspondent also interviewed Jack Dempsey.

"Well, I'm still champion," said Jack. "But what a fight it was! And what a marvel is Tommy Gibbons at taking punishment, at gameness, cleverness!

"My hat is off to him, even if Tommy did decide in the last few rounds of the fight that the better thing for him to do would be to clinch and last the distance.

"It was about the toughest fight of my career.

"I felt at the outset that I could flatten Tommy. I failed and likewise I failed to put him on the floor. Why? That's something I can't answer myself. Maybe experts can. One of two things is sure. Either Tommy is a wonder of wonders both in dodging and ducking and taking a pounding or I'm not hitting quite so hard these days.

Action and Perhaps Cash.

"Two years of idleness perhaps did a little harm. But now that I've had a fight under my belt and really been warmed up, I hope I'll get a little more action. I guess I will. Since Tommy was able to travel the 15 rounds I suppose everybody will begin slinging challenges at me.

"That'll suit me fine. I've always wanted action, but I could not get much. They hung the "superman" thing on me and it scared off a lot of folks.

"It gave the crowd a little joy when Tommy socked a few with his left hand, but they didn't do much more than tickle. Tommy is quite a wall of power I hear, but he didn't do much to me. If he had stepped out in the last few rounds and made it a slugging bee, I guess he might have shown all his stuff.

"And so could I.

Praise for the Vanquished.

"Nothing gives me a greater 'kick' out of life than to mix it with somebody rough and tough. I'd hoped Tommy would get awfully tough toward the finish, but he didn't. He just depended upon his cleverness, his speed and his ability to fall into clinches to go the distance.

"I pounded Georges Carpentier to a pulp in the Jersey City clinches of 1921. I thought I could do the same with Gibbons. But Tommy showed that he certainly could take it. I hit him harder and oftener in the infighting than I've ever hit any man, but Tommy kept his feet and stepped right along.

"I've met something close to 60 men in my ring career, some tough, some tougher, some really good, but I want to say that the best man I ever fought is the man I outpointed yesterday afternoon—Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul."

Bernstein Here to Box Kabakoff

Junior Lightweight Champion Has Won 27 Fights in a Row, Nine by Kayo.

Jack Bernstein of Yonkers, N. Y., who recently defeated Johnny Dundee for the junior lightweight championship, arrived in the city this morning to complete his training for his 10-round bout with Harry Kabakoff at the Coliseum, Tuesday night.

Bernstein says he has won 27 consecutive fights, nine of them by knockouts and the rest through judges' decisions. Among his conquests is a decision over Babe Herman in 12 rounds. Herman fought Kabakoff here recently and was given a shade by newspapers.

It is understood that Bernstein will meet the winner of the Dundee-Criqui battle.

In appearance the New York scrapper is very much like Kabakoff. His fighting weight is 132 pounds and he looks to be a bit shorter than Harry. He saw the local fighter in action in the East and thinks well of his ability. He will work out at the Business Men's Gymnasium.

Kabakoff, who has been going good lately, has kept himself in condition for the bout and says he expects a favorable result.

WIENER BEATS STRACHAN IN ILLINOIS NET FINAL

By the Associated Press.

GLENCOE, Ill., July 5.—Sandy Wiener of Philadelphia won the Illinois State Junior Singles tennis championship here yesterday when he defeated Little Donald Strachan of Germantown, Pa., 6—3, 6—3, in easy sets. Wiener is Tilden's pupil and doubles partner.

William Tilden was held at bay in the men's singles by Walter Westbrook of Detroit, but the world's champion won from the speedy little southpaw, 6—3, 6—4. He advanced to the semifinals.

The speed of Manuel Alonzo won him the right to play in the semifinals, for he took George Lott of Chicago into camp, 7—5, 6—2. Wallace F. Johnson of Philadelphia, with a national ranking of four to defend, beat Phil Bettens, University of California flash, 6—1, 6—1.

Dempsey's Failure to Knock Out Gibbons a Startling Upset

Would Have Been Justification to Disqualify Challenger, but It Would Not Have Been Safe as Crowd Was Intensely Partisan, Writes Broun.

By HEYWOOD BROUN,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

SHELBY, Mont., July 5.—Jack Dempsey defeated Tommy Gibbons, but he could not knock him out. At the end of 15 rounds both men were on their feet. Dempsey was still fresh and dangerous, while Gibbons was hanging on for dear life at the final bell. But he hung on. Dempsey was 15 pounds heavier, four years younger and the most overwhelming favorite who has gone into a heavyweight championship fight in years. It was the most startling upset of a boxing decade. Though there was no knockout in the ring itself a dull thug was heard at the very instant the final bell rang. The dope was demolished and this was the victory in which the crowd rejoiced. By the time the bout began there was a surprisingly big attendance.

Big Town Writers Razzed.

When the tenth round was reached and Gibbons still remained with the champion the guess of almost any writer at the ring was discredited and the crowd was not slow to remark it. "Where are the two-round boys," they shouted. A large oil man with a red neck ran down the aisle until he was within a few feet of the working press section and shouted "Saps" 10 times. Then he went back to his seat thoroughly satisfied. Another shouted even more repetitiously and derisively "Superman, Superman, Superman," and various reporters were called out by name. A delegation from St. Paul located Bob Elgren and kept after him to know if he still thought Dempsey could win at any time he liked, while others verbally assailed Hughie Fullerton to know how he liked the champion's thyroid gland today. As the fight went on and Gibbons stubbornly refused to go down the gibes increased in number and violence. At the end the audience was in high good humor.

It is hard not to suggest that there was something curious or magical about the showing which Tom Gibbons made. When he became a member of the Blackfeet the other day the Indians prayed to Mother Earth that he might be victorious. Although the deity of the Blackfeet did not quite accomplish that there seemed to be potency even if not supreme power in tribal God. The Indians prayed to Mother Earth to make Thunder Chief strong as the lightning, and he was. The manner in which he assimilated punishment was remarkable. Sporting writers have said in the past that Tom Gibbons was not game and did not like to be hit. We don't suppose he liked to be hit yesterday, but he could stand it. In the first round, Dempsey tossed him about and moved him this way and that, just as he did to Carpentier. He ripped away at the stomach of the little man until it seemed as if he must go down. And at such times Gibbons would stamp heavily with the right foot. When we saw him do that in practice we supposed it was just a peculiar style of fighting. But maybe it was more than that, perhaps Thunder Chief Tom Gibbons was summoning Mother Earth to send him more strehgth. He got it.

Gibbons Scores With Lefts.

After all the mauling Gibbons came back and clearly took the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds. At this stage of the fight he jabbed Dempsey considerably and landed at least six fine left hooks to the jaw. He made the champion's head rock although he did not stagger him. Dempsey bled a little but it was an old cut over the eye which was reopened. After the sixth Gibbons began to fade. In the last five rounds he could hardly have led more than once or twice. He was not ashamed to run on several occasions and he did constantly and desperately. Under a strict interpretation of the rules Gibbons might have been disqualified in the closing stages of the fight for he would not heed the orders of Jim Dougherty, the referee, when told to break. Dougherty had to tear him away from the champion to whom he clung like a drowning man to a spar.

Although there would have been justification for the disqualification of Gibbons it would not have been a safe thing to do. The crowd was intensely partisan and Dempsey could not hit his opponent a foot above the belt without cries of foul ringing out from all over the arena. On the other hand Gibbons should hardly be severely criticised for hanging on. It was a tremendous triumph to last fifteen rounds with the champion, a triumph which no other fighter has known since Dempsey took the crown. But holding and running aside, Gibbons fought a beautiful defensive fight. Toward the middle of the bout he seemed to have hit upon a method to stop the pounding even when Jack was in closse.

As for the champion it must be that he has lost something in his two-year lay-off. His short punches to body carried no such snap as they did against Carpentier. There was no question of his condition being good for he finished full of fight but at the present he is not the killing Dempsey whom the ring once knew. The crown has sobered him. He may yet be dethroned while playing too safe and Louis Firpo might do it.

The fact that we were among those who guessed wrong does not disturb us. Our selection was Dempsey in the second round and so we could hardly have been worse off. Still we liked the results.

How Nuxated Iron Helped Put Me In Such Superb Condition As To Enable Me To Whip Tom Gibbons
And Retain the World's Championship

JACK DEMPSEY
"TIGER OF THE RING"

Tells A Secret Of His Training—Advises People Who Are in a Weakened, Rundown Condition To Use Nuxated Iron To Increase Their Strength, Vigor and Vitality

Today, recognized as the physical superior of any living man, the superman of the age, Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, explains below the part Nuxated Iron played in helping to prepare him for the three supreme tests of his career. First he used Nuxated Iron as a part of his training to increase his strength and endurance in his decisive victory over the mighty Willard who had never before been knocked from his feet. In this battle Dempsey displayed a dynamic overwhelming strength and power never before known in the history of the ring; and then again in his phenomenal victory over Carpentier he displayed that same indomitable force and nerve never before seen in any human being. Now once more in his smashing victory over Gibbons, he demonstrates the great advantage possessed by an athlete whose blood is rich in iron. The fact that Dempsey took Nuxated Iron as part of his training for Willard, Carpentier and Gibbons is convincing evidence of the importance he attaches to keeping his blood rich in strength-giving iron, and the high regard in which he holds Nuxated Iron as a master strength and blood builder.

In a statement made at his headquarter after the fight Jack Dempsey said: Four years ago in preparing for my big fight with Jess Willard I took Nuxated Iron, and after I had taken it for a short while I was positive I could stand harder strains with less fatigue than before, and I firmly believe that Nuxated Iron put added power behind my punch and helped me to whip Jess Willard and thereby win the world's championship at Toledo. After that time whenever I felt rundown I used Nuxated Iron to help build up my physical condition; and when I started to train for the international championship bout against Carpentier I resumed the regular use of Nuxated Iron, feeling positive that it would help give me that rugged strength, endurance and power that is of greatest importance in contests of this kind, because, other things being equal, victory always goes to the strongest man. In this I was not mistaken as Nuxated Iron again came to the front at the time I most needed it, and I am sure that it played an important part in getting me into such fine physical condition as to enable me to win so quickly and easily in my battle with Carpentier. Before the fight I had heard so much of Carpentier's great skill and the ease with which he had defeated all the noted heavyweights of Europe that I felt I might have a battle royal on my hands; but I found him even easier for me than Willard and I felt practically as fresh after the fight as when I started. This year in training for the fight with Gibbons, I felt that the basis for all my other work was to be sure that I would possess that stamina and power that is impossible unless one's blood is rich in iron. Just as in preparation for all my previous championship fights, I took Nuxated Iron faithfully all through my training. The result proves that I possessed all my old time strength and punch."

It should occur to every thinking person that if a man as physically fit as Dempsey should consider it advisable to take Nuxated Iron, in training for his battles, how much more important it is for the average man or woman to see that there is no lack of iron in the blood or nerve force in the nerves. Thousands of men and women are weak, rundown and old before their time, their nerve force shattered and their health wrecked simply because they have allowed worry, overwork, grief, constant nervous strain and excesses of various kinds to sap the vital nerve fluid from their nerve cells and the iron from their blood. In such cases one may not only suffer from terrible physical torture such as great nervous irritability, heart palpitations, indigestion, splitting headaches, pains across the back, dizziness, sleeplessness, extreme weakness, etc., but the mind is naturally more or less affected, the memory becomes poor, and the judgment bad.

Many a capable man or woman falls just short of winning success and happiness in life because they do not back up their mental ability with the physical strength, energy and endurance which comes from having plenty of good rich red blood and nerve force. In such cases it is often worse than foolish to take more stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs. What you need is something to put more nerve force in your nerves and more iron in your blood. This is most effectively accomplished by the free use of Nuxated Iron. This valuable product contains the principle chemical constituent of active living nerve force in a form which most resembles that in the nerve and brain cells of man. It also contains organic iron like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. This form of iron will not blacken or injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It is an entirely different thing from metallic iron which people usually take. Nuxated Iron may therefore be termed both a blood and nerve food as it feeds strength-giving iron to your blood and the principal chemical ingredient of active living nerve force to your brain and nerve cells.

Important Statement of Jack Kearns, Manager for Dempsey

"Knowing the benefits that Dempsey had derived from the use of Nuxated Iron in training for his contests with Willard and Carpentier, I strongly insisted that he must again use this product as part of his regular training for his battle with Gibbons, and from the results which Dempsey has obtained from the use of this product in his three phenomenal victories over Willard, Carpentier and Gibbons, I strongly advise people who are in a weakened rundown condition to try this wonderful strength and blood builder."

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: From the above article the reader must not infer that Nuxated Iron will make a giant in strength or a world's champion out of the average man; but Nuxated Iron will increase the red blood corpuscles and by so doing greatly increase your strength, power and endurance, and supply increased nerve force to the starving nerve cells. You can try Nuxated Iron on our absolute guarantee that if it does not increase your strength, power and endurance in two week's time and give you perfectly satisfactory results your money will be refunded. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package. Nuxated Iron for the blood and nerves is sold by all druggists.

PRICES IRREGULAR IN LIGHT TRADE ON STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 5.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

"Today's markets testifid both to their nearness to the holiday and to recent disturbances in the speculative position. In the stock market, additional short selling on a moderate scale brought out some further liquidation by tired holders, but after this had subsided, attempts at short covering brought good recoveries. Taken altogether, the day's business was small, total sales amounting to about 700,000 shares. During the weak phase, losses of a point or two were fairly common among leading rails and industrials. After the afternoon rally had developed, the list was somewhat higher on the day, although considerable irregularity existed. Bonds were steady and the rate on call money, after opening at 4½ per cent, was raised to 5 per cent during the fourth hour.

English Rate Advanced.

"Advance in the Bank of England's discount rate from 3 to 4 per cent seems to have been partially discounted by the markets. In any event, securities in London rallied after initial weakness and then sold off again, while sterling exchange failed to hold a rally and lost one cent, at $4.55. British observers point out, however, that some time must pass before the real effects of the change can be judged, because the settlement attending the end of the fiscal year and a number of puzzling international cross-currents are complicating factors at the present moment. Making allowance for these things, the purpose of the advance in rate is clear. For some time the London money market has been abnormally easy. This has been due partly to the trade depression, partly to the influx of foreign money and partly to a desire to encourage a trade revival and to facilitate Government refunding operations. Recently it has become apparent that the climax of this monetary ease has been reached, with correspondingly bearish implications with regard to British security prices. Under the circumstances funds tended to flow from London and the rise in the bank rate is the natural defense against such a movement.

"Irregularity prevailed among the other exchanges, the currencies of the continental Allies being lower, while those of some of the former neutrals achieved substantial gains. French francs sold as low as 5.84c and after recovering one point, were still off 5 points on the day. Italian lire lost two points, at 4.32c, and German marks were quoted at 0.0005¼c. Business was comparatively light, the weakness being due to an absence of bids.

Foreign Bank Statements.

"The heavy demands which the London market has made on the Bank of England in connection with the turn of the fiscal year are revealed, meanwhile, by the weekly bank statement. Circulation has increased by £1,873,000 and deposit liabilities are larger by £15,201,000. As a result, the ratio of reserve has fallen from 17 2-5 per cent to 14¼. The latter figure is slightly lower than the 15½ per cent of a year ago, a circumstance which can be accounted for by the somewhat greater trade activity of the current year. The French Bank statement shows that the Government has been forced to borrow 800,000,000 francs from the bank, which brings the total for extraordinary advances to a point 400,000,000 francs above that of the one a year ago."

Bank of England Rate Raised.

LONDON, July 5.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows he following changes:

Total reserve decreased £1,870,000; circulation increased £1,873,000; bullion increased £3890; other securities increased £15,743,000; other deposits increased £9,172,000; public deposits increased £5,489,000; net reserve decreased £1,871,000; Government securities increased £1,160,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liabilities this week is 14.24 per cent; last week it was 17.39.

The discount rate was increased today from 3 to 4 per cent.

The chief reason for the present increase is to bring the present rate more in line with the United States, where money for some time has ruled 1½ per cent above London's. This has induced American traders to borrow funds in Lombard street, assisting in the depression of American exchange, which is down to $4.55. It is believed the authorities took action after consultation with the Federal Reserve, thus merely continuing a working arrangement devised and used during and since the war.

The Ruhr situation also was evidently in the minds of the bank directors.

The advance had been discounted in both the stock exchange and the money market, prices on the exchange having recorded declines on gilt edged securities during the past few days, while Lombard street had gradually raised the discount rate against traders.

The usual adjustment of the deposit rates at the banks will occur, after which the market will settle down to a period of somewhat dearer money than has prevailed for some time.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, July 5.—The early raw sugar market was dull; no sales were reported and prices were more or less nominal. Some Philippine Islands in port were offered at 7.28c delivered, or on the basis of 5⅛c for Cubas cost and freight.

The futures market opened firmer and 2 to 10 points higher on covering and trade buying, prompted by more favorable advices from abroad, but prices broke sharply under renewed liquidation and selling by commission houses. Stop loss orders were uncovered on the decline, which extended to 10 points below the spot market, but toward midday prices rallied several points from the lowest.

There was not much activity in the refined market in the way of new business, but withdrawals on old contracts were of fair proportions. Prices were unchanged at 9.25c for fine granulated, while secondhand sugars were offered below this quotation. Refined futures nominal.

Discount Rate Raised.

BUDAPEST, July 5.—The bank discount rate was raised from 12 to 18 per cent today.

PARIS, July 5.—Prices were firm on the Bourse today. Three per cent rentes 55 francs 85 centimes. Exchange on London, 77 francs, 60 centimes. Five per cent loan 75 francs, 20 centimes. The dollar was quoted at 17 francs 5⅛ centimes.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 5.—Grain futures closed substantially lower on the local market. Several cars of new wheat comprised the opening of the crop session on the exchange.

In the cash grain market old wheat sold 2½c lower, with hard nominal. Corn was steady to ½c higher. Offerings were heavy and demand good. Oats were steady to ¼c lower. Demand was fair.

With the movement of new wheat crop gradually increasing, buying eased up. The recent drop in exchange rates also was factor in the export situation. Favorable crop reports entered as influence in corn.

The early range of prices was only moderate and extended on both sides of the previous close. Higher Liverpool market and talk of weather favoring black rust development excited influence in one direction but sales were met. Liverpool closed 1¼ to 2d over Tuesday's final prices. Corn followed wheat.

July wheat opened at $1.00⅝; September wheat $1.02; December wheat $1.05. July corn 82¼c; September corn 74¼c and December corn 62¼c.

The first new wheat of season was on the market, samples of several cars reaching the exchange. The W. D. Orthwein Grain Co. received a car which graded No. 1 red winter, 60.3 pounds and 13 per cent moisture. It came from Southeast Missouri. A car of new No. 1 dark hard wheat, 60 pounds and 11.40 per cent moisture was received from Southern Kansas by the Marshall-Hull Grain Co. About a half dozen cars of new wheat in all arrived and sales were made on the basis of $1.12. Last year the first wheat on the market arrived June 22. In 1920 the first cars came July 6.

Grain exports for the week ended June 30, as reported by the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics (wheat inspected out under American grades only and does not include flour):

Atlantic ports—Wheat, 941,000; corn, 128,000; oats, 10,000; barley, 65,000; rye, 1,057,000. Gulf ports—Wheat, 587,000; corn, 18,000; oats, 12,000; rye, 59,000. Pacific ports—Wheat, 807,000; barley, 135,000. Total—Wheat, 2,335,000; corn, 146,000; oats, 22,000; barley, 200,000; rye, 1,146,000. The three Northwestern markets combined had 968 cars of wheat for today, compared with 589 a week ago and 849 last year, Minneapolis receiving 198 cars, Duluth 116 and Winnipeg 658.

Local wheat receipts, which were 88,800 bushels, compared with 48,000 a week ago and 243,189 last year, included 31 cars local and 43 through; corn receipts, which were 139,100 bushels, compared with 71,500 a week ago and 286,000 last year, included 89 cars local and 18 through; oats receipts, which were 120,000 bushels, compared with 108,000 a week ago and 176,000 last year, included 39 cars local and 21 through; rye receipts were 15 cars local and 5 through. LITTLE LIFE TO WHEAT TRADE ON CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, July 5.—There was little life to the wheat market today and it looked as if brokers were tired from their holiday of yesterday. There was a higher start due to the stronger cables, but the volume of buying was disappointing in view of the strength in Winnipeg also over the holiday. Prices dipped, but met support on the way down until midday when selling by a house with Eastern connections carried prices off and the crowd let go of wheat bought earlier. There was little news in circulation.

Reports from the Northwest told of favorable conditions for the development of rust, and Canada reported heavy storms causing damage in parts, but buyers failed to develop on this news. There was a further break in foreign exchange handicapping exporters, but over the holiday 500,000 bushels of Manitobas were worked. Bradstreets reported a decrease in the visible supply. Cash wheat premiums were unchanged. New wheat is moving freely in the Southwest, Enid, Ok., reporting receipts of wheat there at 104 cars and Wichita 152 cars. St. Louis had 5 cars of new wheat today.

Local cash sales were 1 car wheat, 125,000 bushels corn, 59,000 bushels oats and 50,000 bushels barley.

Wheat closed ½c to 1⅛c lower. There was good buying on the dip on resting orders, July $1.02¼ to $1.02⅜; September, $1.02¼ to $1.02⅜; December, $1.05¼ to $1.05⅜.

Corn was strong most of the session, but the break in wheat about midday caused some pressure and prices reacted. There was heavy short covering in the nearby months, particularly in the September. December was under pressure and did not receive the support some expected. There were many who went out into the country over the Fourth and were impressed with the crop outlook. Cash corn premiums were ¼@½c higher. Shipping demand was fair.

Corn broke in the late trading and resting prices were ⅛c higher to 1⅛c lower, July 79c, September 73⅞c to 74c, December 61½c to 61⅝c.

Oats were weak under liquidation by longs and stop loss selling. Cash oats premiums were off ½c.

July oats had a break of nearly 4c on stop loss selling, but market recovered over 2c from the low point on buying on resting orders, the market closed 1⅝c to 1⅞c lower, July 38⅝c, September 34½c, December 36¼c.

Provisions were higher on strength in hogs and Liverpool.

Lard closed 17½c to 20c higher and ribs 10c to 15c higher.

PRICES RISE SHARPLY IN AN ACTIVE HOG MARKET

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, July 5.—Estimated receipts of livestock were as follows: Cattle, 4000; hogs, 12,000; sheep, 3000; horses and mules, 50c.

CATTLE—Another moderate run received today and market generally steady to strong, with some sales up 25c. Veal calves strong, best selling mostly at $10 to $10.25, with top registering $10.50.

Cattle for week—Market opened weak Monday, but scored material advances Tuesday and Thursday. (Holiday Wednesday.) Compared with last week's close beef steers finished mostly 15c to 25c higher; light yearlings 25c and in some cases 50c higher, butcher cows 25c to 40c higher, canner and cutter cows 25c higher, bulls steady to strong, stocker and feeder steers steady, and veal calves $1 to $1.50 higher.

Quotations: Native beef steers, bulk, $7.75 to $10; light yearlings, bulk, $7.50 to $9.50; butcher cows, bulk, $4.50 to $6; cutter cows, bulk, $2.50 to $3.50; canner cows, bulk, $1.75 to $2.25; heavy beef bulls, bulk $4.50 to $5.50; bologna bulls, bulk, $4.50 to $5.25, and stocker and feeder steers, bulk, $4.50 to $6.50.

Hog market started after a holiday over the Fourth with only a light supply of hogs on sale, there being 12,000 estimated to arrive and around 2000 of these were direct, leaving 10,000 on sale. Other markets had only a light run there being but 68,500 chalked up for the five principal western centers.

Like Tuesday, buyers all had orders for the hogs, and competition was livened by the entrance of packers, order buyers and city butchers into the trade. The advance today again puts St. Louis ahead of other markets on hogs, and to the dissatisfaction of the big killers St. Louis is again out of line.

Trade opened 25c to 30c higher than Tuesday, but whipped up shortly and showed a 40c to 50c advance on bulk of sales. It was an active market as long as the supply lasted. Market's practical top was $7.90 for several strings of good medium and lightweight hogs. One scratch sale at $8 was made, however, the quotation of such a transaction would more likely be misleading to the country.

Bulk of the early hogs sold around $7.75, with $7.85 for the big end after trade got under way. Buyers made no discrimination between heavy and lightweight hogs. While a few odd dealers were quotable down to $7.65, the bulk of the heavy hogs sold along with lighter weights.

Pigs were 25c to 50c higher than the average on Tuesday. It was quite a different tale on these classes than start of week, as there was considerable demand for them and movement was brisk. The 120 to 130 pound kinds sold for $7.25 to $7.50 with lighter weights around $6.50 to $7 mainly. Packers were 15c higher selling mostly around $6.

SHEEP—With a good moderate supply on sale, the market was full steady on sheep and 25@50c higher, several loads reaching $15 for the first time this week. Best fat lambs found sale at $14.75@15, medium grades went at $14@14.50, poor to fair kinds $12@13.50, culls $7@8, mutton sheep $5.50, heavy and plain ewes $3.50, choppers and bucks $2.50@3, and canners $1@1.50.

HORSES AND MULES—Not enough on sale in this department today to make a market and trade nominally steady. Receipts extremely light all week (commission arrivals not exceeding 100 head), and there is no essential change in trade conditions from the previous week.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

L. R.—Fractional currency, 25-cent note of 1874 is worth 30c.

W. A. H.—Cliff Cave is private property and if you wish to erect a tent on it you would have to have the consent of the owner.

A. P.—For clothes that fade use one ounce of sugar of lead in a pail of rain water and soak the garment in this over night.

V. H. H.—Names of automobile schools are listed in the business directory of the telephone book.

V. H. V.—Mike Gibbons, the pugilist, is 36 years of age. Tom Gibbons is 34.

HOUSEKEEPER.—Carpet moths may be got rid of by scrubbing the floor with strong hot salt and water before laying the carpet and sprinkling the carpet with salt once a week before sweeping.

WIFE.—White wash silks may be cleaned by rubbing with stale bread crumbs, mixed with a little powdered blue. White silk and other light colored dresses which have only been slightly soiled can be made fresh and clean again with rubbing with stale bread crumbs.

MONDAY.—The St. Louis Settlement Association, 1029 Marion street, St. Louis, conducts a day nursery, as also does the South Side Day Nursery, 1621 South Tenth street. The latter is conducted for children whose parents are employed.

E. H. D.—1. The newspapers contain ads of persons who wish to do typewriting at home and we advise you to also advertise. 2. The Board of Agriculture, Jefferson City, Mo., will tell you where you can get the addresses of breeders of Arabian horses. 3. Mail will reach Tom Mix if addressed to Fox Studios, Los Angeles, Cal.

X. Y. Z.—Following is the values of the coins mentioned: Dime dated 1855 is worth from 10c to 20c; the dime of 1876 is worth 10c to 15c; penny of 1864 values at 1c to 3c, and each of the pennies of 1865 and 1888 are worth 1c to 2c. The value of a 1c piece of bronze of 1863 ranges from 25c to 50c. There is no premium on a buffalo nickel of the mint 1913.

J. H.—In October, 1919, Congress passed the national prohibition act which included provision for war-time prohibition, enforcement act and industrial alcohol. On October 27, President Wilson vetoed the measure because he considered that the necessity for war-time prohibition no longer existed. Within four hours of the receipt of the message the House of Representatives passed the bill over his veto and the next day the Senate did likewise. Action was then started in the courts to defeat the war-time prohibition act. On Dec. 15, 1919, the Supreme Court declared war-time prohibition constitutional.

L. F.—Here are some methods by which the house may be rid of fleas. Cover the floor with fresh pennyroyal and shut the doors and windows not opening them again for two days. Then gather up the withered herbs and burn them at once. Repeat the process if it is necessary. Or since fresh pennyroyal is rather hard to obtain, take a pound of sulphur wet with alcohol or a sulphur candle and burn it in an old pan set inside of a pan of water. Unlock the windows so that they can be opened from the outside and ignite the sulphur. Be careful not to inhale the fumes and be careful to remove all silver, etc., from the room before using the sulphur.

J. G.—To set colors in cotton fabrics dissolve one ounce of sugar of lead in eight quarts of water, and soak the articles in it overnight. Or lay them in salt water enough to cover them several inches deep and leave them there for five hours. The color will then be set and the dirt will not be permanent. Another excellent way to set color is to dissolve a tablespoon of powdered alum in boiling water and let the dresses remain in this solution for two hours. This setting process should be continued every time the colored article is washed. A common blunder is to imagine that when color is once set it needs no further treatment. Household ammonia slightly diluted will restore lost color. Colors which have run might be removed by washing the article in water in which lemon juice has been added, or chloride of lime may bleach the unwelcome tinge out of white things.

WASHINGTON AVE.—Mirror silvering is sometimes a misnomer inasmuch as the coating applied to glass in the manufacture of mirrors does not always contain silver. In the following formula it is an amalgam of mercury and tin. A sheet of pure tin foil slightly larger than the glass plate to be silvered is spread evenly upon a perfectly plane stone table having a raised edge and is well cleaned from all dust and impurity. The foil must be free from the slightest flaw or crack. The tin is next covered uniformly to a depth of ⅛ of an inch with mercury, preference being given by some to that containing a small proportion of tin from a previous operation. The glass plate freed from all dust or grease and re-polished if necessary is then carefully slid over the mercury. This part of the work requires skill and experience to exclude all air bubbles and even the best workmen are not successful every time. If there is a single bubble or scratch the operation must be repeated and the tin foil is lost; not a small expense for large sizes. When this step has been satisfactorily accomplished the remainder is easy. The glass plate is loaded with heavy weights to press out the excess mercury which is collected and is used again. After 24 hours the mirror is lifted from the table and placed on edge against a wall where it is left to drain well.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

CURIOUS.—Apply at room 35 Municipal Courts Building and not at the City Dispensary for a Wassermann blood test. The service is free.

MRS. J.—Whooping cough vaccine is valuable if used, upon known exposure, or upon the first suspicion of the onset of the disease. It is less efficient after the disease is established. It is harmless.

X. Y. Z.—Both bunions and callous places are due to undue pressure. This may be relieved by proper fitting shoes or by protective appliances. In many cases bunions need surgical interference.

WORRIED. — Individuals vary some as to time between periods. If it has always been the same interval and there are no ill effects noticed, the time may be normal for you. Violent exercise should not be taken during the period.

CONSTANT READER.—To acquire the infection you mention an infected surface must come into contact with a break in the surface of the skin or mucous membrane of a non-infected person. If this is prevented, an infection cannot occur.

L. M. N.—Tripe is a good and nutritious food and easily digested. No poison acts in overdose as an antidote, but many poisons taken in large doses may act as an emetic and result in the vomiting of the poison. The minimum fatal dose is 1 grain of morphine, 2 grains of codein, 1-5 of a grain of heroin.

PLASTER SAINTS

By Frederic Arnold Kummer

"I'm just dying for a chance to act in one of your plays, Mr. Bernard," she said.

"Fine. Leave it to me. There's no hurry. When I get you in, I want to get you in right. It's a damned shame Wilberg couldn't see you, but we won't lose any sleep over that kike. There are plenty of others. You've got a nice place here and might as well wait until the right thing comes along. Meanwhile, I'll see that you aren't lonely." He laughed, showing cigarette-stained teeth.

"I think I ought to go right on studying, don't you?" she asked, thinking of the patient and kindly Mr. Edwards.

"Well—yes, I guess you ought. But I can't get Edwards."

"Why not? I liked him tremendously, and he helped me so much."

"Well, you see, he's Max Wilberg's general stage director, and I guess he'll have his hands full putting on this play you were to have been in. But I tell you what I'll do, Miss Bronson—I'll coach you myself."

"Will you?" asked Jean, not without a note of doubt in her voice. "I didn't know you understood about—about directing."

"Of course I do. I always help Edwards out during rehearsals. Shouldn't be surprised if I weren't a better stage director than he is when it comes down to brass tacks. I'll bring you around a script of 'The Verdict,' and you can be reading it and learning the part while Wilberg is making up his mind about putting it on. And I'll arrange to give you a few hours on the part, coaching you, you understand, as often as I possibly can—two or three times a week anyway. You see, my dear"—he finished his cocktail, set down the glass, and quite casually took one of Jean's hands—"I like you immensely. I feel that we are going to be great friends. You stick to me, understand, and I'll make a star out of you inside a year. I wouldn't take the trouble with most girls, but with you—well, it's different. You appeal to me. Shouldn't be surprised if we found out we were soul-mates, or something like that, before we get through." He patted her unresistant hand softly. "Why don't you finish your cocktail?"

"I really don't care for it—just now." She withdrew her hand, ostensibly to take up the glass and offer it to him. "You drink it for me," she said, with a playful smile.

Mr. Bernard took the glass and placed it on the table beside his own. Then he glanced at his watch.

"Guess I'll call a taxi," he said. "I never bother driving my own car around town at night." He did not inform her that he left the car at his home in New Jersey so that his wife and children might have the use of it. Jean, without having thought about the matter particularly one way or the other, supposed him to be a single man.

"Go right ahead and telephone," she said. "I'll just slip on another frock." She left him at the 'phone and retired to the bedroom. It was annoying, she thought, that he had come so early; she had intended to send Douglas away at six, thus allowing herself half an hour in which to dress.

Mademoiselle Henriette had sent her a simple and very charming dress of black georgette, scarcely an evening gown, in the ultra-modern sense, yet sufficiently revealing her shoulders and throat to show off to their best her youthful loveliness. She arrayed herself in it, determined that Mr. Bernard should admire her to the full, and, admiring her, should then and there decide to do all in his power to insure her a successful career on the stage. She heard him moving about in the outer room while she was dressing, and once the sound of cracking ice in the kitchenette told her that he was preparing himself another drink. When she finally made her entrance, he was seated at the piano tapping out a popular jazz song with one finger.

He sprang to his feet as she appeared in the doorway, eager, flushed, superbly, flagrantly beautiful.

"You—you're wonderful," he cried—"wonderful!" He came up to her and, taking her two hands in his, held her off, surveying her charms with glowing eyes. "So wonderful that I've simply got to kiss you." He bent down, before Jean realized his intentions, and crushed his lips against hers.

She was conscious of no particular sensation save that of annoyance, both because of his action and of the strong odor of alcohol which he exhaled.

"You mustn't do that, Mr. Bernard," she said quietly, pushing him away. "We must remain good friends, you know."

"Friends be hanged," he laughed, holding tightly to her hands. "I—why, you're the loveliest thing I've seen in years." He was about to kiss her again when their eyes met, and something in her glance stopped him. "No reason to get up so much excitement about a little thing like a kiss," he grumbled, searching for his hat. "Everybody's doing it nowadays."

Jean sensed his annoyance, regretted it. Kissing among stage people meant nothing she very well knew. Miss Goddard had explained to her fully about that. It was unfortunate that she should have made Mr. Bernard angry with her, but even to secure a place on the stage she did not propose to allow herself to be mauled by persons she scarcely knew. She laid her hand on his arm.

"I'm sure you'll like me ever so much better, Mr. Bernard," she said, smiling at him with half-closed eyes, "if you don't think me—cheap." It was a daring speech and meant far more to her companion than she had intended it to mean. She was not sufficiently well versed in the ways of the world to realize that he sensed a promise in her words when she had indeed meant none. His good nature was restored at once.

"Right you are, little girl," he laughed. "Well—I'll pay the price all right. There's the cab. Let's move along."

Jean descended the stairs, somewhat disturbed in mind. She had meant only that it cheapened a girl to allow herself to be kissed. Mr. Bernard had apparently taken her words to mean that she set a price upon herself; she realized, in retrospect, how he had made this mistake. Well, it was too late to correct it now; he would have to find out for himself that the only coin in which she could ever repay him for his help was that of hard work, sincere effort to gain success.

Mr. Bernard handed her into the taxicab, lit a cigarette, then gave the driver an address. A moment later they turned in the direction of Broadway.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Finishing a Second Act.

THE dining-room at the Claridge was not more than half filled when Jean and Tony Bernard arrived, yet the captains were already turning away with blandly regretful smiles those who had not reserved tables in advance or were not of the Times Square elect. Tony, who was intimately acquainted with the head waiters of all the restaurants and hotel dining-rooms which the theatrical and "movie" crowd patronized, never bothered to reserve a table; he was always certain to get one, both on his reputation as a spender and as one of the elect in the little coterie which makes up New York stage life.

Jean watched the guy, chattering, overdressed crowd with vivid interest. This was life indeed—life of the sort that she craved, that had hitherto been denied her. She followed her companion to their table along the far wall, not entirely unconscious of the sensation her beauty, her presence with Bernard, had created. Among the actors, managers, show girls and moving-picture celebrities in the room were many whom he knew or who knew him; they wondered who Tony Bernard's latest girl might be. All agreed that she was stunning: a few, remembering the article in the newspapers earlier in the week, concluded that she was the mysterious granddaughter of Joshua Carrington. A great craning of necks began. A composer, famous for some recent syncopated jingles, a juvenile man who was playing to packed houses in a new bedroom farce, stopped at the table to greet Bernard, exchange a bit of Broadway gossip with him, in the hope of receiving an introduction to his charming companion, but Mr. Bernard, fully realizing the value of mystery, did not offer to present them. When, however, Sam Morris, the manager, paused to exchange a word, Tony was more complaisant. It suited his purpose to introduce Mr. Morris to Jean; he even went so far as to suggest that Morris should dine with them, but the latter had other plans.

"I might see you after the show at the Night Club," he said, regarding Jean's flushed and very lovely face with grave interest. "Got a date now."

When he had gone, Jean was all excitement. Even in her former cloistered existence the name of Mr. Morris was not unknown; it seemed wonderful actually to have met him. Mr. Bernard was after all a force in the theatrical world which might mean much to her. She smiled at him gratefully as he ordered the dinner without consulting her as to what she wanted and then began to point out the notables in the dramatic world by whom they were surrounded.

"That's Constance Stuart over there," he said, indicating a table not far off, "dining with her husband, Joe Lemmert. You've seen her on the screen, I guess. She gets a quarter of a million a year."

"Yes. I should have known her anywhere," Jean whispered, regarding the handsome queen of the picture world with something akin to envy. It was not the quarter of a million dollars a year that interested her so much as the success which this woman, scarcely more than a girl, had attained. "I wish I could do as well as she has done," she confided to her companion.

"No reason why you shouldn't if you do as I tell you. You've got her beat a mile on looks. After you've put over a big success on the legitimate stage, they'll all be running after you for the movies. Then we'll make 'em pay." He used the plural quite naturally, as though their destinies were to be permanently intertwined. Jean, noticing it, tried to remember just what the terms of her agreement with Bernard were. She had scarcely read the paper in her eagerness to sign it. For all she knew, she might be bound to him, so far as the theater was concerned, for life. It was a rather disquieting thought.

Mr. Bernard, who did most of the talking, continued to employ the "we." He went deeply into his future plans, spoke of the plays he had under way, which they would work out together.

To Be Continued in the Post-Dispatch.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THIS life was made for work, not play, a lot of fellows claim; they shun each festive holiday and toil's their only aim. They stick so closely to their task, it's all that they can see, for any mirth they do not ask, nor love nor melody. Sometimes I half-way think they're right, joy seems a futile thing, and then I dig both day and night and never pause to sing. I grub along in dreary mood within my cheerless den; with miser instincts I'm imbued, intent on jit and yen. Until—a flash of light goes by that thrills the darkened room, a fleck of color from the sky, a bit of living bloom. It scatters every sordid thought and fills my soul with glee, for lo! the butterflies have brought their messages to me. They tell of grassy, wind-swept hills by sun and shadow flecked, of golden fields and laughing rills, of meadows flower-decked. They bring the song the swallow sings where tender breezes blow, and in the shimmer of their wings I catch the sunlight's glow. Then dreary theories flit like chaff, I know that work is good; but life is made for song and laugh akin to Nature's mood. I drink in joys that warm the soul like twilight's glowing skies; away with thoughts of grief and dole when come the butterflies. They flutter past with airy grace, these creatures of a day, and leave their gladness in each place that once was dull and gray. They give my bare and cheerless room a glimpse of Summer skies, a hint of clover fields' perfume, the bright-winged butterflies.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Lost Little Grouse Does the Wrong Thing.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

You seldom can know in the moment of fright,
If what you are doing is wrong or is right.
.. —Old Mother Nature.

OFTEN it is a lot easier to do the wrong thing than the right thing. Now, as a rule, if a person is lost the wisest thing to do is to stay right in one place. But that usually is the hardest thing to do. The result is that the one who is lost usually wanders on and on and makes a bad matter worse.

It was some time before the timid little Grouse who had flown in the opposite direction from that taken by her mother and brothers and sisters when they had been frightened by Reddy Fox understood that she was lost. As soon as she had come down to the ground she had hidden, and there she had remained motionless for a long time. At first she had thought nothing of it when she heard no sound from her mother. She had been taught to lie still until mother called. And more than once it had been a long time before she had heard the welcome sound of mother's voice.

But by and by she realized that never had it been so long before. She began to wonder why mother did not call. Still, being an obedient small person, she remained motionless right where she was. But at last she realized that something was wrong. Mother Grouse never had left her like this before. She peeped out of her hiding place and with her bright little eyes looked in every direction. No one was to be seen. It was very still there in the Green Forest. She ventured to call softly. There was no answer. She came out of her hiding place. She called a little louder. There was no reply. After that she wisely called no more. She knew that if mother had been near she would have heard and answered, and she knew that there might be other and unfriendly ears which would hear. So instead of calling any more she started out to look for mother.

Now, that was the wrong thing for her to do. You see, without knowing it, she started out in the wrong direction. The further she went the more frightened she became, and the faster she ran. All the time she was running further and further away from her mother and brothers and sisters. She was getting further and further away from the sound of mother's anxious voice.

When her small legs became so tired that she could run no more, she hid and rested. But just as soon as she felt a bit rested she started on again. For a while she was too frightened to think of eating. But after a while she grew so hungry that she had to stop and hunt for food. She didn't hunt long. As soon as her appetite was partly satisfied she started on again to look for mother.

Now, of course, all this time Mother Grouse had been looking for her. Of course, Mother Grouse did not want to leave her other children, and so they all went together. As soon as she was sure it was safe to do so, Mother Grouse went back to where Reddy Fox had frightened them. There she called and called, but, of course, she got no answer. Finally she made all the other young Grouse hide, and then she hurried off by herself to hunt for the lost little Grouse. She actually passed within a few feet of where the lost little Grouse had first hidden. But by that time the little Grouse was far away. Had she remained there she would have been found. So you see she did the wrong thing in trying to find Mother Grouse instead of remaining where she was and waiting for Mother Grouse to find her.

The Little Grouse Finds a Friend.

THE first of the little Black Shadows came creeping out from the Purple Hills through the Green Forest. The lost little Grouse had not been found by her mother. She was quite as much lost as ever. Always before at the approach of the Black Shadows she had had Mother Grouse to crawl under or to creep close to. Never in her short life had she been all alone.

So perhaps it is not to be wondered at that as she saw the first little Black Shadows creeping through the Green Forest she shivered with loneliness and fear. She knew now that she would have to spend the night all alone. She didn't wait for more of the Black Shadows to come. She looked for a hiding place, and presently she found an old log which was hollow and open at one end. She crept into this, and did her best to make herself believe she wasn't afraid.

But she was afraid. Yes, sir, she was afraid. She was very much afraid. Every little sound that she heard made her tremble. Sounds that she had heard often enough and paid no attention to when she had mother with her now seemed strange and frightened her. You see, she was not yet old enough to know the meaning of each sound.

She tried to go to sleep, but couldn't. It was not yet quite dark when she heard the sound of little claws on the log in which she was hiding. She crouched as far back in that old log as she could get, and her heart beat very fast with fright. She kept her eyes fixed on the opening at the end of that old log. Her worst fears were realized. Someone was looking in at that opening. The little Grouse held her breath. Never in all her life had she been quite so frightened.

For perhaps half a minute this stranger stood looking in. To the little Grouse he looked very big and terrible. Would he see her? Would he come in to get her? She wished then that she hadn't hidden in a place from which she could not fly. She felt that she had made a great mistake in crawling into that hollow log. Now there was no way out.

The stranger moved. Would he go away or would he come in? How terrible he looked! For just a second the little Grouse shut her eyes so as not to see him. When she opened them again he was inside, and coming straight toward her. She wanted to cry out, but she was too frightened to. Never before had she had such a dreadful feeling. You see, never before had she been so helpless as she now was.

The stranger was almost to her, and he looked bigger than ever. And then for the first time he saw her. "Well, well, well! Who is this?" said a squeaky little voice.

The little Grouse didn't reply. She was so frightened she couldn't have found her voice to save her life. The stranger had stopped, and was looking at her with a pair of bright eyes, which, if she had only known it, were also soft eyes. They must have seen the dreadful fright of the little Grouse, for they began to twinkle.

"Don't be afraid," said the squeaky voice. "I'm Whitefoot the Wood Mouse, and I won't hurt you. What are you doing here?"

Now, the little Grouse had seen Whitefoot the Wood Mouse before, and Mother Grouse had told her what a timid, harmless little fellow he was. The instant she knew who he was he no longer looked big and terrible. He was a friend. At least he seemed to be friendly.

Increase Capacity of Shelves

(Copyright, 1923.)

Closet shelves are often built far apart. Their usefulness and capacity may be almost doubled by placing at the back of the closet a set of narrow shelves on which glasses, cups and other small dishes may be arranged. A shelf of this sort just wide enough for spice boxes and various bottles will help out in the kitchen closet. C. J. D.

To Clean Ivory-Handled Knives.

Home-Made Barometer.

I made a barometer and keep it outside my kitchen window. I always know what kind of weather to expect in the morning. Fill a large, wide-mouthed pickle bottle with cold water to within two or three inches of the top. Then take a long-necked flask and plunge the neck into the bottle as far as it will go and the barometer is made. In fine weather the water will rise into the neck of the flask even higher than the pickle bottle. In wet and windy weather it will fall to within an inch of the mouth of the flask. Before a heavy gale the water will leave the flask hours before the gale comes to its height. C. B. C.

Prolong Life of Wash Basket.

The life of a wash basket may be prolonged by soaking the basket in a tub of lukewarm water. It must be thoroughly dry before using. One ought to do this every three months. L. M. S.

QUEEN PUDDING

TAKE one pint bread crumbs, one pint sweet milk, one-half cup sugar, the yolks of two eggs and the grated rind of half lemon. Butter the size of half an egg. Add the well-beaten yolks to the other ingredients, bake slowly till done. When cold spread with a thick layer of jelly or jam; make a meringue of the whites of the eggs and add the juice of the lemon, spread on the preserves. Place in moderate oven to brown lightly. Serve cold.

PINEAPPLE TARTLETS

TWO cups pastry flour and three-quarters teaspoon salt sifted together, one-half cup shortening, beaten until light and creamy. Put into the flour about two-thirds cup of ice water, added slowly. Turn out on board, work with the tips of fingers. Roll out thin and line fluted tart tins.

For the filling: One-third cup sugar, one tablespoon cornstarch, one teaspoon butter, one tablespoon lemon juice, one and one-half cups grated pineapple, one cup pineapple juice.

Cook in a double boiler until it thickens slightly. Allow to get perfectly cold. Pour in tart shells. Sprinkle top with chopped nuts or stale cake crumbs and bake in hot oven.

ODD and INTERESTING FACTS

Spain is full of picturesque old structures, including Gothic, Moorish and Castilian. Toledo, which was long the capital of the country, is surrounded on three sides by the Tagus River, and the view of it from a distance is most striking, but the city itself is gloomy and depressing, with its dirty, narrow streets and dilapidated buildings. Toledo at one time had 200,000 inhabitants, but now it has only about a tenth that many. The "Toledo blades" or swords which were once so famous are still made, but there is little demand for them.

The first solid-headed pin was devised in 1797 by Timothy Harris of England. In 1824 Lemuel W. Wright, an American, invented a machine which automatically put solid heads on the pins by driving a portion of the pin itself into a countersunk hole. The first brass wire pins were made in England in 1826. In 1831, John L. Howe, a New York physician, invented a machine for making perfect solid-headed pins, and a factory was started at Derby, Conn. The first pin-sticking machine (which put the pins in packages) was invented by Samuel Slocum of Connecticut, and was put to use in 1841. The modern automatic pin machine completes the pin in all details except the coloring and polishing.

Fashion News Notes

THE TRANSPARENT TRAINS so much in vogue at present for evening gowns do not always match the frock by any means. Just now frocks of peach, ciel blue and other light shades are showing trains of black net.

A NEW EARRING, which it seems must be the last word in that sort of thing, is really a small chain of beads. It hangs in a long, flexible loop that brushes the shoulder, the chain on which the beads are strung having merely enough stiffness to maintain the semblance of a loop.

SMART ENGLISH WOMEN are wearing bronze and black, especially for the "little" dresses in which they go shopping in town these bright mornings. Lady Alexander Curzon, for example, wears bronze shoes with a simple black frock and hat.

NOWHERE TODAY is the fashionable cape more fashionable or more useful than on the tennis court between games. It is frequently made knee length with a wide roll collar. The materials are usually knasha cloth, silk jersey or heavy quality or ratine—and more than likely the pattern is the gayest of Roman stripes.

TINY RUFFLES, knife plaited, are used today on both white and colored lingerie. They edge all the seams, and add a crisp freshness to the garment. Even when the knife plaiting comes out with laundering the ruffles are still attractive.

TUNA FISH A LA KING

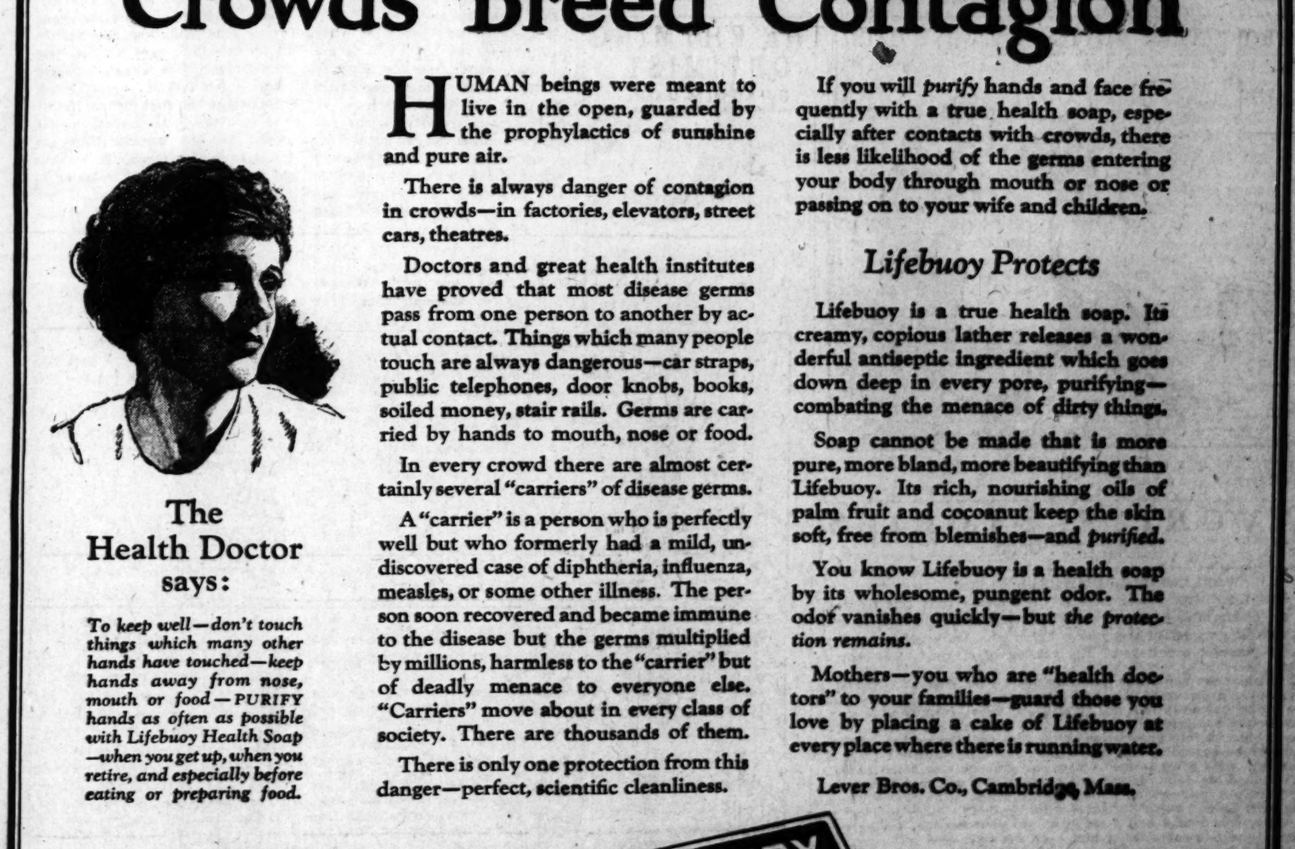
Open two small cans of tuna fish in china dish, draining well, and separate into large flakes with fork, pour juice of lemon over tuna fish.

Place in saucepan
Three cups of milk,
Two-thirds cup of flour,

Stir to dissolve the flour and bring the mixture to boiling point. Cook for five minutes, then add

One green pepper, chopped fine,
One cup of celery, cut in half-inch pieces and parboiled,
One tablespoon of grated onion,
Two teaspoons of salt,
One teaspoon of paprika,
Two tablespoons of finely minced parsley,
Three hard-boiled eggs, cut in quarters.
The tuna fish,

Heat slowly to boiling point, stirring with fork to prevent making mussy; when hot add one-half cup of melted butter, pouring the butter over the top of the a la king. Serve on toast and dust well with paprika.



Crowds Breed Contagion

The Health Doctor says:

To keep well—don't touch things which many other hands have touched—keep hands away from nose, mouth or food—PURIFY hands as often as possible with Lifebuoy Health Soap—when you get up, when you retire, and especially before eating or preparing food.

HUMAN beings were meant to live in the open, guarded by the prophylactics of sunshine and pure air.

There is always danger of contagion in crowds—in factories, elevators, street cars, theatres.

Doctors and great health institutes have proved that most disease germs pass from one person to another by actual contact. Things which many people touch are always dangerous—car straps, public telephones, door knobs, books, soiled money, stair rails. Germs are carried by hands to mouth, nose or food.

In every crowd there are almost certainly several "carriers" of disease germs.

A "carrier" is a person who is perfectly well but who formerly had a mild, undiscovered case of diphtheria, influenza, measles, or some other illness. The person soon recovered and became immune to the disease but the germs multiplied by millions, harmless to the "carrier" but of deadly menace to everyone else. "Carriers" move about in every class of society. There are thousands of them.

There is only one protection from this danger—perfect, scientific cleanliness.

If you will purify hands and face frequently with a true health soap, especially after contacts with crowds, there is less likelihood of the germs entering your body through mouth or nose or passing on to your wife and children.

Lifebuoy Protects

Lifebuoy is a true health soap. Its creamy, copious lather releases a wonderful antiseptic ingredient which goes down deep in every pore, purifying—combating the menace of dirty things.

Soap cannot be made that is more pure, more bland, more beautifying than Lifebuoy. Its rich, nourishing oils of palm fruit and cocoanut keep the skin soft, free from blemishes—and purified.

You know Lifebuoy is a health soap by its wholesome, pungent odor. The odor vanishes quickly—but the protection remains.

Mothers—you who are "health doctors" to your families—guard those you love by placing a cake of Lifebuoy at every place where there is running water.

The Man on the Sandbox

by L. C. Davis

WISE MEN OF THE WEST.

THERE were some men in Shelby town
And they were wondrous bright;
And so they thought that they would stage
A million dollar fight.
But when they found they'd bit off more
Than they could masticate
To raise the necessary dough
They hocked the family plate.

The moral to this story is,
Be sure that you are right,
Before you think of bidding for
A million-dollar fight.
For people many miles away
Will never board a train,
To see a fistic battle in
The middle of a plain.

A HOT ONE.

Some people are trying to lay the cold spring onto radio. Indicating that the weatherman has been tuning in on the North Pole.

"Prepares for Fourth, Shoots Self in Leg."

The man on the sandbox says that the traffic cops may blow their whistles but wetting them is something else again.

"Ambitious Rooster Crows Himself to Death."

Must have got hold of some Old Crow somewhere.

St. Louis now holds the District, State, and Trans-Mississippi golf championships. On to Inwood!

SHOCKING.

President Harding showed 'em how to shock wheat in Kansas. It was a shocking exhibition in which nothing was shocked but the wheat.

When you are in Kansas do as Kansans do. Or come as near to it as you can.

Unless the reports of his death were greatly exaggerated the famous gate crasher has been dead a number of years. All great men have imitators.

It is said that the offer for the Dempsey-Gibbons fight was made by Shelby in a joke. It turned out to be all of that.

Harry Greb picked Gibbons to win by way of showing that Harry had a fairly good opinion of himself.

With a clear lead of ten games the Yankees have as much to worry about as Henry Ford has over where his next meal is coming from.

In this silly age of silliness we'll say that "Yes, we have no bananas" is the cat's meow.

QUITE SO.

ACCORDING to a wide-spread rumor,
The English have no sense of humor;
But if their funny bones are not
They don't indulge in silly rot.

WHEN Dempsey said, "Produce the mon,"
Jim Johnson said, "It Shelby done."

FAVORITE STORIES
By Irvin S. Cobb

WORKING WHILE OTHERS SLEPT.

A WELL-KNOWN public lecturer occasionally tells this story on the platform as illustrative of the enterprise and instinctive commercial sagacity of the young American. He vouches for it as an actual personal experience. His version of it runs somewhat as follows:

"Two summers ago I was motoring up in New England. Taking a short cut over a dirt road late one afternoon I ran into a miry place and the car bogged down in it and stuck fast. Providentially, as it would seem, a farmer boy immediately hove into sight, leading a team of big horses. I entered into negotiations with him and the upshot was that for a dollar he agreed to undertake the job of rescuing me from my predicament. The price seemed reasonable and we closed the bargain.

He hooked his horses to the axle of the stalled automobile and soon had my car upon high ground. I was struck by the brightness of the lad and the skill he had shown in extricating the heavy machine from the mire. After I had paid him I led him into conversation, taking occasion immediately to compliment him upon his smartness

"'Well,' he said, 'I've had considerable practice, Mister. Your'n makes the sixth car I've pulled out of this here same mudhole today.'

"'Did each one of the owners pay you a dollar?' I asked.

"'Yep,' he said. 'That's my regular price for this job.'

"'Then you've earned $6 today?'

"'Pretty fair wages for a boy of your age, I should say,' I complimented.

"'Well,' he said, 'this has been a specially good day. I don't always take in this much; and anyhow, 'tain't as easy as you might think for me to earn this money. All day I've got to be hangin' 'round waitin' for one of you city fellers to get bogged down and start callin' for help. That ain't the worst of it, neither. Except when it rains, I have to be around here a good part of every night.'

"'What do you do here at nights?' I asked.

"He drew his team off the road and started away through the woods. Then, over his shoulder, as he vanished, he replied:

"'Oh, night times I have to draw water and fill up this here mudhole so's it'll be all ready for business the next day.'"
